LS heat over bill on full biological record of accused

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

AMID din, the government on Monday introduced a bill in the Lok Sabha to accord legal sanction to the police to take physical and biological samples of any person accused of crime. The Opposition vociferously opposed the bill, calling it illegal and unconstitutional.

Agitated Opposition members like Manish Tewari, Adhir Ranjan Chaudhary, N K Premachandran and Saugata Roy forced a vote at the introductory stage of the Criminal Procedures (Identification) Bill, though it was defeated with 120 ayes for the legislation as against 58 nays.

Minister of State for Home Ajay Mishra sought to allay apprehensions, saying the bill only seeks to make provisions for the use of modern techniques to capture appropriate body measurements of all accused for investigation.

It is meant to replace the existing Identification of Prisoners Act, which was introduced way back in 1920. The existing law allows taking fingerprints and footprint impressions of a limited category of convicted persons. But under the new bill, the term 'measurements' includes finger impressions, palm print and footprint impressions, photographs, iris and retina scan as well as physical and biological samples and their analysis.

Strongly opposing the bill, Congress leader Manish Tewari said it was against Article 20, Sub-Article 3 and Article 21 of the Constitution, adding it was beyond the legislative competence of the Lok Sabha. "Under Article 20, Sub-Article 3 explicitly states, no person or accused of any crime shall be compelled to be a witness against himself," Tewari pointed out, adding that words like 'biological samples and their analysis' in the bill could lead to narco analysis and brain mapping.

Adhir Ranjan Choudhary, Premachandran and others questioned the intention for empowering the police to such an extent through the bill. But, Ajay Mishra countered that the bill grants legal sanction to the police to only take body measurements for efficiency in criminal investigations. The Law Commission, he pointed out, had suggested changes to the law in 1980, but the recommendations were not acted upon for 42 years. On apprehensions raised by Premachandran, Mishra said the Criminal Procedure Code already allowed collection of DNA samples.

GIRL STUDENT DIES AT SSLC EXAM CENTRE IN MYSURU

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

IN a sad incident, a 16-year-old girl student, who was writing her SSLC examination, collapsed and died allegedly due to a cardiac arrest at an examination centre in T Narasipura taluk of Mysuru district on Monday.

The deceased — Anushree from Akkuru village, who was studying at the Madapura Government High School — had gone to write the exam at Vidyodaya Junior College, which was her examination centre.

"It was just about 10 minutes since the exam had started and she collapsed from the desk. The invigilator, supervisor and the staff with the help of ASHA workers shifted her to the general hospital," said a staff member at the college.

The doctors at the T Narasipur General Hospital declared her dead on arrival. Her parents, Kemparaju and Lakshmamma, who are daily wagers, rushed to the spot only to be informed by the doctors that their daughter had lost her life.

While doctors suggested that it could be a case of cardiac arrest, education department officials said the exact cause would be known only after the postmortem.

Deputy Director of Public Instruction Ramachandra Raje Urs said the student had no prior health issues. "Her body temperature was checked before sending her inside the examination hall and if she had any symptoms, she would have been asked to sit in a separate room. CONTINUED ON: P2

Leopard rode goods train to reach Bengaluru?

BOSKY KHANNA & S LALITHA
@ Bengaluru

LEOPARD droppings found in one of the goods train coaches which arrived a few days ago at the Rail Wheel Factory (RWF) campus — well within the city limits — indicates that the female leopard, which is still on the prowl within the RWF campus or surrounding areas, came there riding a goods train.

A forest official, privy to the developments pertaining to efforts to capture the leopard, said, "Many coaches come to RWF for repairs or to even pass by. The leopard could have sneaked into one such train. The railway teams have found leopard droppings in one of the coaches. But from where did the leopard come into the coach remains to be ascertained."

The RWF campus is surrounded by busy roads and urban spaces. The probable forests from where it could have come are Doddaballapur, KR Puram and Kaggalipura, which are far away. Though the RWF campus is large and has mini-forest patches, these are not leopard habitats. The only way it could have come into the campus is on a goods train, the official reasoned.

Another official said, "Leopards easily adapt to urban environments and have been living in close proximity with human habitations. Since forest habitats have shrunk and the nearest forests that can sustain leopards are far away, it would not have been easy for this leopard to come into the RWF campus." P2

Nagesh mulls changes in PUC revaluation process

2,777 candidates were affected due to wrong evaluations in last 3 yrs, says minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

PRIMARY and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh on Monday announced that changes will be brought in the reevaluation process of PUC answer sheets. He added that currently, there is no provision to consider the reevaluation marks, if it is lesser or not more than six marks, and it is being considered to include them as PU results are very important.

Replying to a question by BJP MLC N Ravikumar in the Council on Monday, Nagesh informed that 2,777 were affected due to wrong evaluations in the last three years and four evaluators were penalised for that, and Rs 400 was collected from them as fine.

MLC SV Sankanur, who raised the question on behalf of Ravikumar, said that though a large number of students were affected, only a few were penalised. He demanded that there should be a benchmark for evaluation and evaluators who did wrong evaluations must be blacklisted.

As Sankanur also pointed out that some students, who had passed the exams, were failed after applying for reevaluation, as evaluators had reduced more than 15 marks, the minister replied that changes will be brought to the evaluation system. "Currently, if a student applies for reevaluation and the variation does not exceed six marks, it won't be considered. But, as even a single mark makes a lot of difference in the competitive world, an amendment will be made to consider the reevaluated mark," Nagesh said.

Officials spar over 2041 Master Plan

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WITH the revised Master Plan 2031 shelved by the state government and work on approval of 2041 master plan underway, the tussle among government officials and cracks in the system are becoming evident.

The discord has brought the attention back on the growth of Bengaluru on the lines of Delhi, Mumbai and Noida. Some officials have suggested forming New Bengaluru, like Navi Mumbai or Greater Noida.

One part of the discussion is about the international airport at Devanahalli, stretching to Hindupur and its surroundings, becoming the hub of development and focusing towards north Bengaluru. Some officials from BMRCL and Urban Development Department have suggested transit-oriented development (TOD) with emphasis on the Metro, while officials from other agencies, including the transport department, UDD and BDA, have suggested an expansion of the city. They are also in favour of reviving the long-shelved plan of Bangalore Metropolitan Region Development Authority (BMRDA) that would create five townships, including Bidadi, Ramanagara, Sathanur, Solur and Nandagudi.

While proposing a decentralised city, BDA officials caution other officials and experts that the focus of the revised master plan 2041 should be to avoid choking the city. The TOD has failed in many developed international cities, and it should not be an option while preparing the draft at a cost of Rs 16 crore, they say.

"The 2041 master plan, just like the 2031 one, is focusing on TOD, which is not good for the city. If there are government lands around Metro, the option of going vertical is fine. But in the present model where there are homes around the lines, it is impractical. Also Metro is not the only mode of transport in Bengaluru, and with this, the Central Business Districts will become more congested. The city needs an all-round development with multi-modal transport and expansion," said a UDD official.

BU associations begin bandh, demand VC appointment

ENS @ Bengaluru

WITH a vice-chancellor yet to be appointed to Bangalore University, various organisations, including associations of teaching and non-teaching staff, PhD scholars and students, began observing bandh on Monday.

The organisations took out a protest rally at the university campus, demanding that a new VC be appointed at the earliest, considering that this is the first instance ever that a VC has not been appointed to a university for almost a fortnight. As a result, various issues like the approval of PhD theses, promotions, and convocation details, among others are awaiting approval.

Prof K R Venugopal had vacated the post of Bangalore University Vice-Chancellor following the dismissal of four appeals questioning the order of the Karnataka High Court, which set aside his appointment. This was done as his appointment by the Governor had not been undertaken with the concurrence of the State Government. It has also been reported that the university's adminstration registrar, M Kotresh, has allegedly filed an appeal in the Supreme Court to retain Venugopal as the VC, however, he has said that he is still awaiting a formal government order regarding the matter.

AS per the procedure, the postmortem will be conducted. To hand over the body to the parents at the earliest, arrangements have been made to conduct the postmortem at T Narasipur and not in Mysuru as it is normally done," he said.

Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh called him to gather details and expressed his anguish over the sudden demise of the student, he said. "The minister directed us to release a compensation of Rs 1 lakh as per procedure and a demand draft for the amount will be handed over to the family soon," he added.

Asked if Anushree died of shock because she landed at a wrong exam centre, Minister Nagesh said, "She went to a wrong centre and the authorities informed her about it and took her to the correct centre. Where is the question of shock? Remember, at that time, the exam had not yet started. Do not believe in such rumours. She collapsed when she was climbing the stairs. The postmortem will explain the cause of death."

T Narasipur MLA Ashwin Kumar rushed to the spot and pacified the grieving parents. He held a meeting with officials and asked them to hand over the body as early as possible to the family to conduct the last rites.

A source at the examination centre said that Anushree had arrived at the wrong exam centre and was informed by an invigilator after cross verifying her admission ticket with the invigilator's copy. "When she was being accompanied to her original exam centre, she collapsed and was rushed to the hospital," the source added.

SPOTTING SPOTS

Trap set up, but leopard still elusive

FOR the staffers, the case is also unique as they are not clear if the leopard is pregnant or has littered cubs in the vicinity. The chances of her falling for the bait (beef and mutton and a live goat) is also grim as the area has sufficient street dogs, which are leopards' favourite prey. If the female leopard already has made a kill and is feeding on it, they will have to wait long for her to take the bait.

Meanwhile, an alert has been sounded and residents on the campus have been told not to venture out at night, especially when the leopard was sighted again on Sunday night near the trap set up by forest staffers camping at the spot. But the leopard did not enter the cage, where beef and mutton as well as a live goat had been kept as bait. Residents have been told to move in groups, if necessary, with a stick or a torch and make noises while moving.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

29th March: If yesterday was 'ruled' by the Moon, today's presiding planet is Mars. This, the theory runs, should therefore be a Martial day. But what does that mean? Energetic, full of enthusiasm and zest for life: those are the good qualities. Weaknesses to be particularly aware of include aggression and impatience. My advice? Be patient!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The fact that the Moon is in a lively mood should be sufficient to persuade you that other people are on your side. In fact, the more personal contacts you build up now, the better. You're intense and passionate, but the question you face is how on earth you can put your dreams into practice.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You'll soon be hitting a more energetic phase - if such a thing were possible - so keep your eye on the long-term picture and go the whole hog when dealing with anything connected with your broader interests and ambitions. Plus a partner who was once so irritable, could be displaying hidden reserves of charm.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There's no doubt that you'll be able to get important projects off the ground, this week. It is up to you, though, to see that all practical arrangements are absolutely crystal-clear and confirmed. Otherwise, other people will pick up the wrong end of the stick - and run with it.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
This is certain to be an action-packed week and your determination to bring an uncertain phase to an end should be successful. It's all too easy to be swept away by your feelings, so it is essential to maintain a grip on all practical angles and details.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Travel plans, new projects and adventures are well starred, although Mars' imminent change of position means that you have very little time left to finalise arrangements. Move fast to secure agreements because otherwise they could come badly unstuck.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Recent planetary patterns have undoubtedly helped you gain your independence in one area, but may have made you increasingly reliant on partners in another. Such contradictions are inevitable, but there is no reason why you shouldn't turn them to your advantage.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You must accept what takes place now as a signal to settle rifts or disagreements with partners and close companions. However, it is less incumbent on you to keep the peace by yourself. Instead, you can encourage partners to play their proper part.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Several planets are now aligned with the early regions of your sign, arousing a spirit of argument and debate. You may be taken aback by somebody's attitude, but that's no reason to let them walk all over you. It's just a matter of finding the middle way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
This is without a doubt one of the most confusing and exacting periods of the year for you and for many people in your social circle. Or is it? Think again. It's in the nature of your current transits that reality is likely to be obscured by layers of misunder-standing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Although partners have been bringing a little light into your life, you may have felt that just the opposite was true. Often it has seemed that you have been bowed down by personal responsibilities, but not for much longer. What seems far more likely now is that you'll begin to climb out of a deep hole.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Events at work may have made you regret taking others at their word. Yet, within a few days, Mercury will have adopted a position which allows you to put your ideas across with poetic flair. You'll be at your most inspired around the end of next week.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Recent lunar twists and turns have done a great deal to establish your social confidence. New community responsibilities may beckon for those of you who have tasted collective action and have decided that you like it. You'll get a good feeling from being involved and appreciated.

Long Covid depends on severity of infection

Shortness of breath, chronic fatigue, sleep issues, brain fog common; TB, skin diseases increased after Delta

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

AT a time when several people are reporting symptoms of Long Covid, a study by researchers from Italy has found that the symptoms may depend on the variant the person has contracted, and also the severity of the Covid-19 infection. Doctors from India agree with this, and say that several observational studies done by them, which are yet to be published, prove this, but there have been cases where the infection may be mild but Long Covid symptoms are serious.

The study will be presented at the European Congress of Clinical Microbiology & Infectious Diseases (ECCMID 2022) in Lisbon next month. Italian researchers suggested that individuals who were infected with the Alpha variant of the virus displayed various emotional and neurological symptoms, compared to those who were infected with the original form of SARS-CoV-2, says an early release from the ECCMID, regarding the study. The analysis also suggested that people with severe infection were six times as likely to report Long Covid symptoms.

The study found that of 428 patients tested, the most common symptoms found were shortness of breath, chronic fatigue, sleep issues, brain fog and visual problems.

The researchers' analysis suggested that individuals with severe cases, who required immunosuppressant drugs such as tocilizumab, were six times as likely to report Long Covid symptoms, and those who were treated with high-flow oxygen support were 40 per cent more likely to experience long haul symptoms.

Interestingly, in an observational study done by doctors at Manipal Hospital, they saw similar symptoms, and those with skin diseases saw a considerable increase in their conditions too. Dr Satyanarayana Mysore, renowned pulmonologist, HOD, Sleep Medicine, Manipal Hospitals, said, "We saw that if Covid was severe, then Long Covid is prolonged and challenging. Interestingly, even people with mild Covid who were in home isolation are reporting Long Covid symptoms, mainly insomnia and anxiety."

He explained that skin issues like psoriasis, urticaria and lichen planus have remained for a longer time in patients who were infected during the Delta wave. "During Omicron, the most common symptoms have been dry cough, fever-like symptoms but with no high temperature, occurring mainly during late afternoon to evening," he said.

Doctors in Karnataka have also seen cases where Tuberculosis in patients worsened post the Delta wave, and even those who had no history of asthma were found to have become asthmatic. Doctors appreciated the study and said that Indian researchers are also working on many Long Covid related studies, which are in the pipeline to be published. "Though certain benchmarks have been set to identify symptoms of Long Covid, more research needs to be done on Covid impact," Dr Mysore said.

25 of 30 districts record zero Covid cases, pandemic tails out

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IN a convincing indication that the pandemic is in its death throes in Karnataka, 25 of 30 districts of Karnataka on Monday recorded zero Covid-19 cases. This is the highest number of districts registering no additional cases in a day, right through the pandemic which hit the state on March 8, 2020.

The five districts which did record Covid-19 cases were Bengaluru Urban (40), Chitradurga (2), Kolar (3), Mysuru (1) and Yadgir (2).

These were the districts which contributed to the total 48 Covid-19 cases added to the tally, which stood at 39,45,359 on Monday, according to the health department bulletin.

The state's positivity rate has dropped from the third wave peak of 6.21 per cent as on February 5, to 6.02 per cent. However, the first two waves had witnessed much higher positivity rate peaks.

The highest positivity rate witnessed in the first wave was 12.54 per cent on September 27, 2020, while the highest in the second wave was 8.81 per cent on June 4, 2021.

Karnataka's recovery rate had been a dismal 35.29 per cent on July 20, 2020, when the first wave of the pandemic was wreaking havoc on the state's population. It rose to 98.06 per cent on January 30, 2021, when the wave was on the wane, only to fall again to a low of 69.83 per cent on May 11, 2021, when the severe second wave riding on the Delta variant peaked. The recovery rate rose to 98.94 per cent as on Monday.

The number of active cases in the third wave started to rise from 9,386 on January 1 this year to 3,62,487 on January 24 — in a matter of just 23 days. The number fell to 1,719 cases on Monday.

The sharp rise in active cases has been attributed to the much less severe Omicron variant of SARS-CoV-2, which was, however, much more transmissible that the preceding variants.

HC directs allotment of vacant seats to college

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

ACCEPTING the unconditional apology tendered by the undersecretary of the Medical Education Department, with a word of caution for disobeying the order, the Karnataka High Court directed the department and Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) to allot the remaining vacant seats after two rounds of counselling — except seats under NRI and other quota — to GR Medical College Hospital and Research Centre (GRMC), Mangaluru.

It also directed that the remaining government seats also be allotted to the college in the mop-up round, or in any other subsequent round which may be held later.

A division bench of Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty passed the order, modifying the order dated March 5, 2022, while disposing of the petition filed by GRMC. Though the status of a linguistic minority institution has been granted to the college by an order dated January 24, 2022, the state government did not implement it with regard to seat matrix.

Therefore, the petitioner-GRMC moved the high court seeking direction to the respondents — Medical Education department and KEA — to effect necessary changes in the seat matrix for allocation of seats to linguistic minorities for admission to undergraduate courses in medicine.

Drive against untouchability starts, funds to flow for Vinaya Samarasya

More grants for panchayats free of scourge; likely to be launched on Ambedkar Jayanti

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government is set to launch Vinaya Samarasya, an awareness programme to eradicate untouchability across Gram Panchayats in Karnataka. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai will launch the initiative, and Prime Minister Narendra Modi will lend his voice for the campaign, Social Welfare Minister Kota Shrinivasa Poojari said on Monday. The government will also provide more grants to panchayats that are free from untouchable practices in Karnataka.

Replying during assembly proceedings on the budget, Poojari referred to an incident of September 2021, where a Dalit family was slapped with a penalty of Rs 25,000 after their two-year-old toddler Vinay entered the temple premises at Miyapur village in Kushtagi taluk. This incident was condemned by various sections of society. The minister said Vinay's entire educational expense will be taken care of by the department. "We are ready to bear the cost, whatever course he wants to study, medical or engineering," he added.

Poojari rued that this inhuman practice still exists. "In the name of Vinay, the State government is initiating Vinaya Samarasya, an awareness programme which will be launched across the state at the panchayat level. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai will launch the initiative, and will have a voice message from Prime Minister Narendra Modi," he said. In order to eradicate this practice, the government will announce more grants to panchayats that are free of untouchability.

The minister told TNIE that they are discussing the dates to launch the scheme, and there is a proposal to launch it on Ambedkar Jayanti (April 14). "We are checking if PM Modi can inaugurate it virtually," he said. However, we will take his voice to reach out to more people, he added.

Guidelines will be framed for panchayats. "We will see if villagers use the same tap/well to collect water, if they allow all castes inside temples, harmony in villages, and based on this we will decide if these villages are free from the practice of untouchability," he said. The Social Justice Committee in each panchayat will take up this initiative along with local legislators.

'K'taka voters mature, won't fall for BJP's divisive politics'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

ASSEMBLY Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah on Monday said that divisive politics of BJP to polarise Hindus on communal lines will not work in Karnataka as people here are mature enough to realise the designs of the saffron party. "Karnataka is not Uttar Pradesh, Manipur, Uttarakhand or Punjab. Karnataka is Karnataka. How long will you indulge in divisive politics ... Politics of religion? People will never forgive you (BJP)," he said.

He was speaking at a function in Bengaluru where former minister MB Patil was sworn-in as KPCC Campaign Committee Chairman.

"Here there is a conflict between Manuvaada and manushyatva (humanity). Congress does not want to do politics over caste and religion. We are committed to humanity," he said.

On murmurs of snap polls in Karnataka, Siddaramaiah called the BJP power hungry and will not dissolve the government to face early elections. "Are we not Hindus? Didn't we read the Ramayana and Mahabharata? It was during the tenure of our PM Rajiv Gandhi that the great epics were telecast on TV... The message of struggle against evil forces is essential," said D K Shivakumar.

He claimed that Congress abides by the Constitution and treats it on par with religious epics. "The BJP is playing negative politics over sensitive issues.... but we are for positive politics," Patil said.

Former minister MB Patil takes charge as KPCC Campaign Committee Chairman in the presence of senior party leaders HK Patil, Siddaramaiah, BK Hariprasad, Dr G Parameshwara, Mallikarjun Kharge, Randeep Surjewala, DK Shivakumar and others, in Bengaluru on Monday | VINODKUMART

Congress will come back to power on its own by winning not less than 140 seats in the 2023 Assembly polls, M B Patil remarked The leaders on the dais asked party workers not to get disheartened by BJP's recent victory in four states as Karnataka is a different ball game.

Leader of Opposition in the Council BK Hariprasad attacked the RSS and Sangh Parivar, saying they have not contributed to the freedom struggle.

Qualification must to practice traditional med

ENS@ Bengaluru

HEALTH and Family Welfare Minister Dr K Sudhakar has clarified that those practicing any discipline of medicine must have prescribed educational qualification or be registered with competent authorities.

Congress MLC UB Venkatesh had moved a private resolution to give priority to Ayurvedic medicine, in the council on Monday. In reply, Dr Sudhakar said that the Union Government has already introduced a policy in this regard and the state cannot formulate one.

Further, he added that those who have been practicing Ayurveda traditionally can enrol themselves at Ayurveda universities in Ballari and Bengaluru and the government has reserved free seats for them.

When Venkatesh asked whether the government will allow the practice of a multi-disciplinary approach in medicine, the minister assured setting up a high-level committee of experts to study the same within a month.

Policy needed to control population, says MLC

BJP MLC Bharathi Shetty, during the zero hour, raised the issue of increasing population and suggested the government introduce a population policy on the lines of Uttar Pradesh, where a two-child policy is proposed. "Our state should also come up with the two-children policy so that population can be controlled," she added.

No new projects, financial discipline first: Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Public Works Department Minister CC Patil on Monday said his department will not take up any new work which will cause unnecessary expenditure for the state, as the government is setting financial discipline.

Speaking at the assembly, he blamed the previous government for spillover works and for taking up more work but with no fund allocation. "This has led to a financial crisis which we are sorting out at present. They have taken up more work than the allocated funds, which is why we are facing a fund crunch. This has increased pending bills every year," he said. Patil said that in order to bring in financial discipline, unnecessary projects will not be approved. He also pointed out that Covid had added to the financial crisis.

Patil also spoke of the bidder who quoted 25-30 per cent lower than the tender rate. "We need to look at their work, and if they compromise on the quality of work. This is our responsibility," he told the House.

Earlier, some of the MLAs had raised the issue of the bidder quoting less. He also said they are planning to introduce a Schedule of Rate system for all construction works.

Modi and Shah must sack this 40% commission govt, demands Surjewala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah should look into allegations of 40 per cent commission being collected by BJP ministers, leaders and MLAs in Karnataka as alleged by the contractors' association, said AICC general secretary and Karnataka in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala here on Monday.

"The '40 per cent BJP government' led by Basavaraj Bommai is corrupt and does not have the right to continue in power even for a single day. I heard that both Shah and Modi are coming to Karnataka. They should remove corrupt ministers and government. Otherwise, it proves that the 40 per cent commission reaches up to New Delhi and Nagpur," he alleged.

Attending a function where former minister MB Patil took charge as KPCC campaign committee chief at Bengaluru Palace Grounds, Surjewala hinted that Congress could make corruption in the government a poll plank ahead of the 2023 Assembly elections in Karnataka.

"It was on July 6, 2021 that association president D Kempanna wrote to Modi saying contractors have to give 40 per cent commission to ministers, leaders and MLAs in the government. A BJP leader too has sent a note to Modi. Where have the investigative agencies, including ED and ACB, gone now," he asked.

KPCC president DK Shivakumar extended the party's support to an agitation planned by contractors in April.

"Kempanna wrote the letter to Modi, but no investigation has been ordered till now. If the Prime Minister was committed to his policy of 'na khaunga, khane dunga', he should have dismissed the government," said Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah.

Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge alleged that the Modi government is selling off all the assets, including PSUs, created by Congress governments of the past. "They have also failed to fill 19 lakh vacancies in different government departments, which has led to a rise in unemployment," he added.

CONGRESS UNITY

Congress leaders put up a united front with almost all the top leaders, including MLAs, attending the event. Over one lakh people from across the state, including Patil's home town of Vijayapura, attended. When Leader of Opposition in the Council BK Hariprasad got up to deliver his address, Siddaramaiah left the dais. Some from the audience too followed him. After Hariprasad finished his speech and DK Shivakumar started delivering his speech, Siddaramaiah returned to the dais. "Siddaramaiah might have gone to the restroom," a Congress leader said.

ISSUE OF RIGHTS

AIMPLB MOVES APEX COURT AGAINST HC HIJAB ORDER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE All-India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB), along with two other petitioners, has moved the Supreme Court against the Karnataka High Court judgement that upheld a ban on wearing hijab in educational institutions in the state.

"Firstly, after the conclusion of the hearing, the four issues wrongly framed by the High Court do not address the core issue viz. whether or not it is necessary to consider the doctrine of essential religious practice where the petitions have asserted their Fundamental Rights under Article 25(1) and 19(1)(a) of the Constitution and consequentially, it resulted into the verdict which deprives the constitutional rights of Muslim girls to practice Hijab along with the school uniform. Secondly, while deciding the said issues, the High Court has laid too much emphasis on propositions which results into discrimination, exclusion and overall deprivation of a class from the mainstream public education system apart from the fact it seriously encroaches upon an individual's sacrosanct religious belief... The idea of bringing uniformity cannot be placed on such a high pedestal which amounts to negation of other constitutional and basic rights of different groups which run al through our Constitution vein," the petition reads.

The petition contended that it is a case of direct discrimination against Muslim girls. "The High Court has created a distinction between the principles laid down in the case of Bijoe Emmanuel by giving a different contextual meaning (as a case of discipline) and on the other hand the practice of Hijab is reflected as if it was a case disturbing the entire uniform that too when this minor variation (of covering the head like the Sikhs do) can be reasonably accommodated within the constitutional norm being part religious practices. Hence laying too much emphasis on bringing "uniformity" in the uniform without accommodating a person of one religion 'to cover her hair with a piece of cloth' is travesty of justice. The impugned judgement also ignores the doctrine of reasonable accommodation," the plea adds.

It states that the determination of essentials under the principles of essential religious practice (ERP) had started with the idea of determination of essential religious practice that fell within the complete autonomy of the religious denomination in the matters of deciding as to what rites and ceremonies are essential according to tenets of a religion.

"Over a period of time, it appears that the Courts have completely taken upon themselves the task to determine what are the essentials and integrals of any and every religion practised in our country for the purpose of regulatory control over them by the State authorities." It reads.

75KM SHORTER

New road linking B'luru & Pune to cost ₹40K cr

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

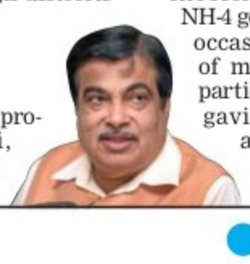
IN an attempt to reduce burden on the existing National Highway-4 (part of the Golden Quadrilateral) between Bengaluru and Pune, the Union Government has proposed to develop another national highway to link both the cities.

The proposed new highway, to be developed at an estimated cost of Rs 40,000 crore, will help reduce the distance between Bengaluru and Pune by 75 km.

According to Union Minister for Highways and Road Transport Nitin Gadkari, the 699-km long new national highway connecting both the cities, will pass through the drought-prone areas of Satara and Sangli districts in Maharashtra.

To minimise flood effect

While attending a programme at Sangli, Gadkari said that several parts of the existing 775-km NH-4 between Bengaluru and Pune submerge during the monsoon season. He said that the new highway will be designed in such a manner that at no point of time any part of it will get flooded.



In recent times, the traffic on NH-4 got hampered on many occasions due to flooding of many of its stretches, particularly between Belagavi and Kolhapur. The authorities concerned have been finding it tough to divert the massive movement of vehicles through alternative routes.

The NH-4 is one of the busiest national highways in this region. A new highway between Bengaluru and Pune would come as a huge relief to commuters, especially during the rainy season.

In Karnataka, the proposed national highway will pass through Belagavi, Bagalkot, Gadag, Koppal, Bellari, Davanagere, Chitradurga, and Tumakuru districts.

SilverLine get SC nod, govt relieved

Bench comes down heavily on single judge's order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi/T'Puram

IN a shot in the arm for the embattled Kerala CM Pinarayi Vijayan government on the SilverLine project, the Supreme Court on Monday refused to stay the ongoing land survey and social impact assessment.

Dismissing petitions challenging a division bench order of the Kerala High Court, which set aside a single judge order staying the survey process of the SilverLine project, the apex court asked what was wrong in conducting the survey for Social Impact Assessment.

> The Single Judge ought to have appreciated that by such ad interim order the prestigious project couldn't have been stalled. The Division Bench rightly set aside such an interim order.
> Supreme Court Bench

The HC division bench had allowed a batch of appeals filed by the State noting that SIA cannot be seen as an empty formality and that the public is entitled to know the impact and consequences they are likely to suffer.

The SC bench, comprising Justice M R Shah and B V Nagarathna, came down heavily on the single judge's decision to "stall a prestigious project".

Referring to the interim order passed by the single judge, Justice Shah remarked "the High Court has stalled everything and not just the Study. How can such an order be passed in an interim order?... We don't want to stall any project at all, we are very clear."

"The single judge stayed survey of properties of petitioner and any acquisition steps in respect of the proposed semi high-speed rail corridor. The Single Judge ought to have appreciated that by such ad interim order the prestigious project couldn't have been stalled. The Division Bench rightly set aside such an interim order. It's to be noted that the proceedings at that stage was with respect to Social Impact Assessment studies only, which would not cause any prejudice to petitioners. We are in complete agreement with division bench's view. No interference of this court is called and SLP stands dismissed," the bench said.

At a time when it is on the backfoot with protests against laying of stones for the survey, the ruling comes as a major relief for the Pinarayi government.

ED attaches ₹63cr worth assets of GS Oils in bank fraud case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Enforcement Directorate (ED) has provisionally attached movable and 290 immovable properties worth Rs 63.05 crore, belonging to GS Oils Ltd and its associate companies, in a bank fraud case. This is the second Provisional Attachment Order (PAO) issued in this case.

According to ED, the money laundering investigation was initiated on the basis of an FIR registered by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) Bank Securities & Fraud Cases (BS& FC), Bengaluru. It was registered under various sections of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) against GS Oils Ltd, its directors and associate companies for cheating and causing wrongful loss to the erstwhile State Bank of Hyderabad (presently State Bank of India).

"Investigation by ED revealed that GS Oils had availed various credit facilities from SBH and UCO Bank, such as cash credit, term loans and Letters of Credit (LCs). All such credit facilities have turned non-performing assets (NPAs) on account of the fraud committed by the accused persons. Loans were round-tripped and parked into various associate companies, and subsequently either withdrawn in cash or utilised for purchasing land banks in the name of associate companies, which were again mortgaged for more loans," stated the ED, in an official release on Monday.

HUMONGOUS MESS IN SRI LANKA AND PAKISTAN

Ecology has given us a concept wonderfully applicable to geopolitics. Think of the war in Ukraine. And then think of Sri Lanka. The Rajapaksa regime has profusely thanked Indian Foreign Minister S Jaishankar, who they were hosting for the BIMSTEC summit. New Delhi had recently extended a $1 billion line of credit to enable supply of essentials to Sri Lanka—things like oil, gas and food. Even paper for writing exams is in short supply. Long queues have become a common sight in a cash- and commodity-starved country neck-deep in domestic and international debt. Foreign reserves have dwindled; imports—on which the Lankan economy rests—are badly hit; FDI flows are minuscule; tourism is still recovering from Covid. Tamil refugees from the northern part of the island have been streaming into Tamil Nadu. Kerala has closed its coast. To be fair, before the Rajapaksa brothers took over the reins as president and prime minister, the situation was already grim. It's only become grimmer, with an IMF bailout becoming inevitable.

A mishandled economy, an arguably lopsided foreign policy, and internal political turmoil has similarly pushed the Imran Khan government to the brink. With very few friends, except perhaps China (now trying out a half-truce with India), Imran is clutching at straws. Throwing conspiracy theories at his supporters and praising India at political rallies, while staring at a no-confidence motion in Parliament—that should be a good enough index of chaos. Imran, in short, is a burden for even the all-powerful Pakistani military establishment, which probably finds the idea of a replacement PM from the opposition a better bet. This of course behoves Pakistan's hybrid democracy, where no elected (or engineered) civilian government lasts a full term. Will a new dispensation or fresh elections solve Pakistan's problem? The answer is no. Well, you could ask the same question of some other neighbours as well.

DON'T LOSE FOCUS ON CLIMATE CRISIS

The poles are seething with unprecedented heat. Deep down south, as the region is set to go into the long annual winters, weather stations have clocked 40 degrees Celsius above normal; at the other end of the globe—just out of the cold—scientists have reported temperatures 30 degrees C higher than the average. In completely opposite seasons but temperature records being smashed, both Arctic and Antarctica are in the midst of a heat wave that has baffled climate scientists. Experts in Australia attribute the unusual hot conditions to strong winds blowing from the continent towards the southern tip. However, weather analysts across the globe are unanimous in their view that the simultaneous heat wave at both the poles is historic and no less alarming. The ramifications of heating of the poles are widespread—low heat absorption, faster pace of ice melting over the land, gradual rise in sea level and coastal inundation across the continents. There is, yet, very little clarity behind the twin incidents though scientists believe the events are signs of rapid changes in earth's climate.

Such climate extremities come a year after several parts of the globe reported massive spells of heat wave. The United States as well as Canada had witnessed record-breaking heat waves in 2021. Australia, not long ago, struggled with flooding while wildfires ravaged South American countries like Argentina and Chile. There is a section that believes that El Nino-La Nina cycles in the Pacific Ocean may have a bearing on these occurrences that come as no surprise. The latest report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change had pointed out that much of the global warming footprints will emerge by 2050 but the current signs are ominous. India, too, is facing its share of unexpected heat waves and extreme weather events. Even as much of the world stands together to fight the crisis arising out of the Russia-Ukraine war, it should not be lost on the global leadership to keep a close watch on the drastic changes in the climate front that can exacerbate the economic as well as social fabric of the countries that are most vulnerable to the climate crisis.

We live in a time surrounded by the hard, real and palpable. In the crevices of everything hard lies the soft. The hard rules over the soft. What you see wins over what you don't

SOFT MAY NOT BE PALPABLE, BUT IS SURELY BEAUTIFUL

HARISH BIJOOR

SOUMYADIP SINHA

If you haven't read E F Schumacher yet, you must. This German-born British economist has been a childhood favourite of mine. The author of the epoch, Small is beautiful: A Study of Economics as if People Mattered (1973), left a very early impression in my mind as a kid growing up in the seventies. Small is indeed beautiful. More so today. Even as I am all grown up.

In 2022 (and in this article), I want to spin off a new phrase—"Soft is Beautiful"—from Schumacher's popular words. We live in a time when we are surrounded by the hard and the real and the palpable. In the crevices of everything hard, there lies the soft. In many ways, this "soft huge thing" that is ubiquitous everywhere (but seldom recognised to be important enough) is quite like the largest 'organ' (if you may call it that) of the human body, the interstitium. We still believe the skin is it. The hard rules over the soft. What you see wins over what you don't.

Let me then jump out of economics and the physiology of the human body and dive straight into the lives we lead. We live in a society that is fast-tracked in every manner. We worship new gods today. We don't worship trees as much as we do technologies that could get us fresh air. We don't worship heritage, as we do the gigantic new buildings that spur our economic endeavour further and beyond. We don't worship what is clean as much as we do what dirties up our planet the most.

Have we gone crazy? No. Doesn't quite seem like that as yet. It is just that we prioritise interests and concerns. We do largely believe that the world is run by money. And making this money, and eventually using this to make the world look "beautiful", seems to be the primary driving force of the new society. And if that's right, it's all a matter of perspective. It's all about where you stand and what you see. This perspective is the point of repetitive and laborious debate.

I do believe we are just too close to the book to be able to read it. We need to step back and think. Let me isolate some thinking points on issues that get to the raw end of the perspective stick. Let me just list three. And maybe make us feel a wee bit guilty, enough to act.

1. Air quality: The just-released Swizz-based IQAir's World Air Quality Report 2021 lists New Delhi as the most-polluted capital city in the world. And that too, for the fourth successive year. Now this is a dubious distinction that makes our capital city rub shoulders with Dhaka (Bangladesh), N'Djamena (Chad) and Dushanbe (Tajikistan) in the top four.

This dubious distinction of Delhi being the pollution capital of the world is not a tag to be proud of. We have had this dog tag for long and we have done precious little to jump out of the box and solve the issue.

Of all the pollution types any city grapples with, the case of air is the worst of them all. However, what we see is what we tackle. Air pollution is not seen as much as that of every other kind. Pollution of land, water, sound and even visual (in terms of billboards and more) are seen more and acted upon. What you don't see is what you don't recognise. Even as it eats into our very lives, with a fresh new report saying that the pollution in Delhi cuts short lives by 1.5 years.

Slow death is never an issue, is it? Society is busy with sudden deaths, mostly. It's a matter of perspective.

2. Heritage: Now this is a really niche one. Those who think of heritage are considered to be people with nothing else to do. They are often considered to be those who sit atop Maslow's hierarchy of needs: self-actualising folk who live in ivory towers of their own. Oftentimes of their own making.

> Soft is beautiful. Soft is stuff that does not make immediate money for us. Soft is stuff we don't see or even smell. Soft is not fashionable. Soft is not mass. And soft does not belong to anyone. It belongs to everybody. Soft is public property

Every big city of ours has seen the wrecking of the old to replace it with the new. Heritage structures that could have been saved and used (not as museums alone, but as repurposed commercial spaces), are often quickly, cleverly and quietly erased. Bengaluru just saw one such quick and decisive guerilla action with the erasure of Empire Talkies (Empire theatre) that sat as a heritage jewel on Mahatma Gandhi Road.

Let's accept a current day fact though. Commerce is important. Valuable real estate plots on which old and dilapidated structures sit are a waste of resources. Why lock up a resource when you can get it to unlock potential money trapped in it? It's a matter of perspective.

3. Trees: In the beginning, there were trees. These trees oftentimes came with the lay of the land. We encroached on our forests and farmlands to build cities. As we did this, we were kind to some trees that did not come in our way and cruel to others that did. Our early forefathers were wise enough to build a little and preserve a lot more. Nature and its bounty were still respected. Human greed was still under control.

And then came the big city, its big needs, its wants, its desires, its aspirations and more importantly its big greed. The trees got chopped, slowly but surely. In the beginning, when we wanted a tree out of the way, we did it brazenly. And later, as civil society kept watch, we did it quickly, quietly and cleverly. The protective rules exist though. More in the breach than in compliance.

The trees in our big cities are fast vanishing. Public projects are as guilty as private ones. Greed to that extent is equal, public or private. And governments are today contemplating bringing in technology to solve the issue. Outdoor ambient air purifiers are making their quiet entry into our public spaces. Wait till many of us require an indoor air-purifier to keep our oxygen saturation intact. If technology can replace a tree, why bother keeping them? It's a matter of perspective.

I must shut down this tirade then. I have picked only three soft spaces in our public domain to discuss. The important point is to rethink perspectives. At least now. Before it's late. Too late.

Soft is beautiful. Soft is stuff that does not make immediate money for us. Soft is stuff we don't see or even smell. Soft is not fashionable. Soft is not mass. And soft does not belong to anyone. It belongs to everybody. Soft is public property.

But soft can kill. Kill us physically, and more importantly kill even our sensibilities. Soft is the interstitium in our body that you and I don't recognise exists yet.

HAS NEET SERVED THE PURPOSE OF ITS CREATION?

DR SUNIL CHANDY

Chief Medical Officer, ITC Healthcare

The struggles in 2021 of medical aspirants to undergraduate and postgraduate courses through NEET testifies the anecdotal truth of the quote 'Better is the enemy of good'. In trying to solve the myriad issues that beleaguered medical admissions, the Central government, the bureaucracy and the MCI proposed in 2012 what was considered to be the panacea to rid medical education of all its ills. A decade from then and six years from the time NEET became a law, medical entrance and education remains a fiasco where the solution has become bigger than the problem. There is hardly a day in the admission season when some aspect of its conduct or consequence does not find a place in the news. A range of disturbing issues, from student suicides and unclear marks distribution to social inequity have come to the fore. Tamil Nadu has taken the step of rejecting what it feels is a self-defeating formula as far as career opportunities of state aspirants are concerned. There is much truth in this assumption, confirmed also by the trends of manpower deficits in other parts of the nation. New regulations are known to have teething problems in the first two years of implementation. But to have them for a decade calls for serious introspection. The NEET story is going wrong from the perspective of future human capital in healthcare, which opening of new medical colleges alone will not address.

NEET was undoubtedly formulated with good intentions. It was intended not only to standardise medical admissions in terms of merit, but also to curb the capitation fee menace. The first Supreme Court judgement in 2013 did not favour the examination, but the verdict was brought back for a review and a pro-NEET verdict pronounced in 2016. NEET thereafter has become law, despite the cries of several state and minority institutions that it would be detrimental to the plight of students from socially disadvantaged backgrounds. That fear has come true. What is more worrying and unfathomable for the health ministry is that NEET has tilted the results of medical education away from the public health needs of the country. In that regard, NEET has been self-defeating. The problem of high-payment seats, marks-matrix conundrums and unacceptable commencement delays continues. The year 2021 went by without a single admission, adding significantly to the frustrations of students and colleges. The NEET formula may be silently diminishing the pool of motivated doctors for the new health needs of the country.

Fundamental issues that nuance medical education have failed to catch the attention of lawmakers. Legal logic has veered too much into objectivity and less on contextual differentiation. That the concept of one nation one exam is unsuitable for a country with such socio-economic diversity has been trivialised by the powers that be. There are many soft aspects unique to the discipline of medicine that cannot be measured or quantified. Medicine, unlike engineering or IT, is not dependent solely on merit determined by marks. Worldwide, it has been established that it requires high levels of emotional and social intelligence with reasonable scholastic merit. That a student with 99% marks in an entrance examination without a reason-to-be is not necessarily suitable for medicine, but a rural student with 55% with a mission and motivation may be, is a fact that needs greater recognition. The sense of entitlement that merit endows makes the meritorious less sensitive to social needs and more pursuant of career ambitions. The Week, in their 17 August 2019 issue, had reported a 40% increase in the migration of doctors between 2015 and 2017. Candidates empowered by socio-economic weightages are more likely to return to their roots and serve long term in their native environments, driven by a deeper sense of obligation. This equation has been somewhat fractured by the merit monolith enshrined in the NEET philosophy.

> The hypothesis that merit determined by marks alone will produce the best doctors is erroneous. While a few may be, most eminent doctors in India today are not necessarily toppers. They are products of good training unhindered by the pressure of examinations, and mentored with a missional approach to serve their motherland

The NEET system is not just about one MBBS entrance exam, but a series of them for PG and higher specialty in increasing order of difficulty. Most qualify only after a gruelling one or two years of expensive coaching. From the third year of MBBS, instead of acquiring bed-side skills, they are peer-driven to chase the next target—the PG NEET. Night coaching classes and the pressure to crack NEET makes them disinterested in acquiring bedside clinical skills. The cycle repeats for higher-specialty NEET. They have realised, and rightly so, that acquiring skills has been second-placed in the pursuit of career objectives in the highly meritocratic system of NEET. It has become one long tunnel of exams that leaves the medico no time or inclination to learn the science and art of medicine. The proposed exit exams, NEXT, will add yet another layer to this saga.

The hypothesis that merit determined by marks alone will produce the best doctors is erroneous. While a few may be, most eminent doctors in India today are not necessarily toppers. They are products of good training unhindered by the pressure of examinations, and mentored with a missional approach to serve their motherland.

Fuel price, Bengal rock Parliament

Proceedings hit as Oppn seeks rollback of fuel rate hike; BJP raises Bengal's law and order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

OPPOSITION parties on Monday disturbed the proceedings in both Houses of Parliament over the price hike of fuel and LPG. Dismissing the government's contention that the rise in prices was due to the Russia-Ukraine war, they sought a statement from the PM on the floor of the House and also rollback of the hike.

On the other hand, members of the ruling BJP demanded Centre's intervention in West Bengal in accordance with the Constitution after a ruckus happened in the state Assembly, alleging that there was no rule of law in the state and party MLAs Suvendu Adhikari and Manoj Tigga were "attacked" inside the House.

Raising the issue of fuel prices during the Zero Hour in Lok Sabha, Congress MP Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury said common people are in distress with 'their pockets being looted".

"Our party chief Sonia Gandhi has decided that we will run a 'Mehngai-mukt Bharat Abhiyaan' in the country because the prices of petrol, diesel, CNG and PNG are continuously rising. The government is claiming that due to the Russia-Ukraine war, prices are rising. This is not true as we import only about 0.5% of oil from Russia. This government in the last seven years has earned ₹26 lakh crore (in excise duty on petrol and diesel)," he said.

Earlier, Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla declined the opposition's demand for a discussion on the issue of fuel price hike after suspending the Question Hour, saying he would give them "enough time and opportunities" to raise the matter during the Zero Hour.

Rajya Sabha proceedings were adjourned till 12 noon after Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu did not admit notices by opposition members to raise the issue of rising fuel prices as well as the strike called by various trade unions.

Meanwhile, referring to the West Bengal incident, BJP MP Saumitra Khan said, "Suvendu Adhikari and Manish Tigga were attacked inside the Assembly. This has not been seen in the entire country. We need Article 355 in Bengal." Article 355 refers to the Centre taking over law and order in a state.

They should do it the way the UPA did when it gave ₹10 lakh crore as subsidy and kept prices of petrol under check. Otherwise let them bring back the administered price mechanism — TR Baalu, DMK MP

Lavrov visit: Oil payment system may figure in talks

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

RUSSIAN foreign minister Sergey Lavrov is likely to visit India this week amid Russia's isolation by the West over the ongoing war against Ukraine. The focus of the visit is expected to be discussions on a payment system for India's procurement of oil and military hardware from Russia.

Lavrov's visit comes days after Chinese foreign minister Wang Yi's unscheduled visit to New Delhi. It is learnt that Lavrov will arrive here after concluding a two-day visit to China.

It would be the highest-level visit from Russia to India after Moscow launched its military offensive against Ukraine on February 24. There has been no official word on the visit by either side.

India is likely to import nearly 10 million tonnes of crude oil from Russia at a discount of $20 per barrel. The state-run oil companies have committed to buy 6 million tonnes while private firms are negotiating for importing 4 million tonnes.

It is understood that India is working on a rupee-rouble exchange, which would allow it and Russia to carry out financial operations by bypassing the US dollar. The Centre is working on a proposal to permit five nationalised Indian banks to engage in the rouble trade.

"It may be a diplomatic tight-rope for India as it has favourable relations with US too, but with the increase in crude price globally this is a viable option for India as it does not want to burden the consumers with a steep hike in the cost of fuel," say sources.

The Ministry of External Affairs, on the issue of India importing oil from Russia, had said that many European nations were still buying oil from Russia, so India wasn't doing anything out of the ordinary.

5 BJP MLAs suspended after fisticuffs in Assembly

BJP MLAs in a scuffle with TMC members in the Bengal Assembly on Monday | PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

FIVE BJP MLAs, including Leader of Opposition in West Bengal Assembly Suvendu Adhikari, were suspended on Monday after a fisticuff broke out between the ruling Trinamool and opposition members over the Birbhum killings.

Pandemonium broke out after BJP members demanded a statement by TMC supremo and Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee over the deteriorating law and order situation in the state in the wake of the Birbhum massacre in which nine people, including seven women, a child and a youth were burnt alive last week. A bleeding TMC MLA, Asit Majumdar, had to be hospitalised after Adhikari allegedly punched him in the nose.

Speaker Biman Bandopadhyay suspended Adhikari and four others — Manoj Tigga, Narahari Mahato, Shankar Ghosh, and Dipak Burman — from the House until further notice.

"We wanted a discussion over the carnage and the deteriorating law and order situation in the state. But TMC MLAs, hand-in-gloves with policemen in mufti, attacked our MLAs. Our injured MLAs were thrashed and they were not spared even after they slumped to the floor," alleged Adhikari.

BJP members held a protest on the Assembly premises against the Speaker's action.

State minister Firhad Hakim said the BJP staged a drama to create chaos in the Assembly.

TMC sources said Mamata, who is on tour of north Bengal, enquired about the Assembly ruckus. On the CBI probe into the Birbhum massacre, she said, "If the agency is found working at the behest of a political party, Trinamool will hit the roads."

INTERVIEW

'BJP HAS NO CHALLENGER IN GUJARAT ELECTION'

BUOYED after retaining power in Uttar Pradesh for the second consecutive term, the BJP is gearing up to face the Gujarat Assembly polls and win power for the seventh consecutive term in the western state. Speaking to Rajesh Thakur, Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel exudes confidence that the party faces no challenge in the state and his government's development works will help the party retain power.

After winning elections in four states, the BJP is eying Gujarat polls. What are the challenges faced by your party, especially from Congress and AAP?
The BJP faces no challenges in the upcoming Assembly election because what we have done for development speaks itself and the people are well aware of this. Be it the time of Covid-19 pandemic or other pressing issues, the only party that has stood with the people is the BJP. The reality is that we foresee no challenge. When we work, we don't bother about election results. The BJP has set a widely acclaimed development model called 'Gujarat Model'. When I took over as CM in 2021, it was speculated that AAP would win Gandhinagar Municipal Corporation polls. But what happened then? The BJP won 41 out of 44 seats. That is the result of our works done for the people. In democracy, any party can go anywhere to fight elections, but it is the collective wisdom of people of a state that decides the results. The collective wisdom of the people of Gujarat is with the BJP.

A good number of fresh and young faces have been inducted in your cabinet. Will there be a priority in ticket-distribution for the youth in the upcoming elections?
Ours is a party which is run through a systematical democratic way. Even the chief minister in my party cannot say his ticket is confirmed. Whatever decision my party takes, it is gladly accepted. That's all.

With what issues will your party go to the polls this time in Gujarat?
The BJP government is working to ensure benefits of all schemes reach every person. Among the many development works, we are focusing on bigger exploration of green energy. In this context, we have recently signed an MoU of ₹104.04 billion with the Suzuki Motor Corporation for manufacturing of electric vehicles and BEV batteries. An MoU of ₹5,955 lakh crore with Reliance Industries Ltd has also been signed by the Gujarat government. This will create 10 lakh direct and indirect employments in the state. To make Gujarat carbon-fee, the Reliance Industries Ltd will set up 100GW renewal energy power plant and develop hydrogen ecosystem.

Other parties are offering freebies ahead of the election. Do you think this will pose challenge?
I am a positive-thinking man. I don't work to defeat anyone but work for the people and win the election. The BJP is not a party which has come into existence only for contesting elections. We can also announce freebies but we do good governance maintaining a balance of budget and financial foresightedness. Had we indulged in freebies politics, our deficit would also have gone up like Rajasthan and some other states.

EXPERTS SPEAK

Covid lessons can help India eradicate TB

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

INDIA can become free of tuberculosis by 2025 by taking lessons from the Covid pandemic, say experts. According to them the best option to fight the disease, which has seen a 19% surge in 2021, is to follow the same methods taken to battle Covid — test, treat, track, and find a successful vaccine for TB.

Dr Zarir F Udwadia, a leading pulmonologist who co-authored the Lancet report on TB highlighting the cases in the time of Covid-19, said the pandemic in a single stroke wiped out decades of slow but steady progress in global TB-control.

The consultant chest physician at PD Hinduja Hospital and MRC in Mumbai said tuberculosis detection was reduced by 25.1% in India in 2019. "We have lots of ground to cover. Let us hope TB control can benefit from this pandemic. If we could discover 33 different vaccines for Covid within two years, surely we can improve on the century-old BCG vaccine for TB."

According to Dr Preeti Kumar, Public Health Foundation of India (PHFI), "What we can take from the Covid is the strengthened management information system (MIS) used for the pandemic." MIS is a data collection method, collation, analysis, and program performance improvement and monitoring. "It is time for India to direct its effort to find a safe and effective vaccine for TB," she told this newspaper.

Accepting that Covid has "significantly reversed gains" made in tuberculosis control, Dr Mubasheer Ali, senior consultant, Apollo Telehealth, said the absolute percentage of those succumbing to the disease has risen to 5-7%, up from 1-2% during pre-pandemic times.

Navy gets more reconnaissance power over Arabian Sea with new squadron

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

IN a significant move to strengthen the reconnaissance capability of Indian Navy towards the western seaboard, a new Naval Reconnaissance Air Squadron has been raised under the Western Naval Command (WNC) headquartered in Mumbai.

The Navy on Monday said, "Indian Naval Air Squadron (INAS) 316, Indian Navy's second P-8I aircraft squadron, will be commissioned on March 29 at INS Hansa, Goa, in the presence of Naval chief Admiral R Hari Kumar."

INAS 316 will operate Boeing P-8I, the sophisticated multi-role long range maritime reconnaissance and anti-submarine warfare (LRMR ASW) aircraft. The aircraft is powered by twin jet engines, and can be equipped with air-to-ship missiles and torpedoes.

"INAS 316 will operate the second batch of four additional aircraft acquired, adding teeth to the armour of the Indian Navy, to deter, detect and destroy any threat to the nation in the Indian Ocean Region (IOR)," Navy said.

INAS 316 has been christened 'The Condors', after one of the largest flying birds in the world. The raising of reconnaissance unit INAS 316 has taken place after 45 years. The Navy had in 2013 acquired the first batch of eight P-8I aircraft and they are stationed at INS Rajali, Arakkonam, Tamil Nadu as part of the INAS 312 'Albatross'.

INAS 312 was a functional unit operating the Tupolev-142 aircraft which got decommissioned in March 2017. The vast swathe of area of responsibility under the WNC stretches up to the Persian Gulf and the East Coast of Africa including the Arabian Sea.

Gujarat farmers intensify stir for eight-hour power

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

THE Gujarat government is facing farmers' ire over supply of electricity. Opposition Congress and AAP have been agitating against the BJP government for the last four days demanding adequate power to farmers. Adding fuel to the agitation, the RSS-affiliated Bhartiya Kishan Sangh (BKS) has warned the state government of launching a fierce agitation if the latter failed to provide eight hours of electricity to the farmers. To pacify the Sangh outfit, the state energy minister has invited its leaders to discuss the issue.

In the last four days Congress MLAs have been raising the issue of inadequate power supply to farmers in Gujarat Assembly. Former Gujarat Congress president and MLA Amit Chavda said, "The BJP government has failed to provide adequate electricity to farmers."

Energy minister Kanu Desai had said farmers will get six hours of power. "Electricity will be provided for more than six hours after a week. Electricity will be provided to farmers by cutting the supply to industries if required." he said two days ago.

Farmer leader Darshan Nayak rejected the government's assurance and said, "While the BJP government makes tall claims that farmers are getting enough electricity, it is a fact that most of the farmers in Gujarat are not getting adequate electricity for irrigation purposes."

Gujarat tribal party leader meets Kejriwal in Delhi

Ahmedabad: Ahead of the Gujarat Assembly polls due in December this year, state-based Bharatiya Tribal Party (BTP) chief Mahesh Vasava met Aam Aadmi Party's national convener Arvind Kejriwal in New Delhi on Monday. The meeting comes days after some Gujarat AAP leaders met the BTP chief and his elder brother MLA Chhotu Vasava at their residence in Bharuch district and invited them to form an alliance with the Kejriwal-led party. The BTP had contested the 2017 Gujarat Assembly election in alliance with the Congress and won two seats. However, the tribal outfit has of late distanced itself from the opposition Congress. During his Delhi visit, Mahesh Vasava, the MLA from Dediapada constituency, also visited a government school and a mohalla clinic, the Gujarat AAP unit said in a tweet. In the 2017 state polls, the Congress had won 15 out of 27 seats reserved for Scheduled Tribe candidates, in alliance with the BTP. PTI

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

PRAMOD Sawant on Monday took oath as Goa chief minister for the second term. Interestingly, his cabinet is dominated by defectors. Out of the eight ministers sworn in, including the chief minister, only two are originally from the BJP.

The eight cabinet ministers sworn in by Governor P S Sreedharan Pillai are Valpoi MLA Vishwajit Rane, Dabolim MLA Mauvin Godinho, Curchorem MLA Nilesh Cabral, Ponda MLA Ravi Naik, Shiroda MLA Subhash Shirodkar, Porvorim MLA Rohan Khaunte,

BJP did not induct any independent ministers even though two of them extended their unconditional support to the BJP. The Maharashtrawadi Gomantak Party had also extended support but none inducted Priol MLA Govind Gaude, and Panaji MLA Atanasio 'Babush' Monserrate.

The defectors include former Congress veteran Ravi Naik who switched over to the BJP ahead of the polls in December 2021. Another former Congressman to be included in the Sawant ministry, Attanasio (Babus) Monserrate, had joined the BJP in July 2019 and was instrumental in engineering the defections of nine other Congress MLAs to the BJP. Besides, another minister Rohan Khaunte was elected independent in 2017 and joined BJP ahead of the 2022 state polls.

Vishwajit Rane, one of the chief minister aspirants, was with the Congress and is the son of former Congress CM Pratap Singh Rane. He left the Congress in 2017 after the party failed to form the government and joined the BJP. Rane also took an oath on Monday.

Subhash Shirodkar was with the Congress and had served in the cabinets of Pratapsingh Rane and Luizinho Faleiro.

Mauvin Godinho was in the Congress and joined the BJP in 2010. Govind Gaude, who switched ober from the Congress in 2017, also took oath as cabinet minister.

PM Narendra Modi, Union minister Nitin Gadkari, BJP chief J P Nadda and Maharashtra ex-CM Devendra Fadanavis, who was the Goa election incharge, were among those who attended the oath-taking.

NH blockade fuels crisis in Manipur

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

PETROL pumps in Manipur are slowly drying up as an indefinite bandh on an NH – called by a tribal outfit in neighbouring Nagaland – entered its eighth day on Monday.

Local residents in the Imphal valley said petrol and diesel were being sold at ₹120-150 and ₹110-120 a litre respectively in the black market.

As per Manipur government sources, presently, there is no shortage of essential commodities or medicines.

National Highways 2 and 53 are the lifelines of Manipur. NH 2 enters the state via Nagaland and is preferred by the goods transporters. NH 53 enters from Assam, but is a much longer route and not preferred due to security reasons.

Incidentally, no commercial or private vehicle has reached Manipur via Nagaland since March 21 – when the Nagaland-based Southern Angami Public Organisation enforced the bandh. Apparently, it is influential in areas bordering Manipur's Senapati district.

Initially, the outfit had called a 72-hour bandh in protest against the state's construction activities and deployment of armed personnel in the Kezoltsa/Dzukou valley. The bandh was subsequently extended indefinitely.

As a counter measure, the All Assam Manipuri Youths' Association announced an indefinite blockade on NH 2 in Assam from Sunday midnight. Like Manipur, Nagaland depends heavily on this highway for essential supplies.

Himanta, Sangma to meet Shah today for border row solution

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah will hold a crucial meeting with the Assam and Meghalaya chief ministers on Tuesday to finalise a draft resolution of the two states towards settling their boundary dispute in six of the 12 areas.

Official sources said senior officials of the Ministry of Home Affairs would also attend the meeting in New Delhi.

In August last year, the two states had mutually agreed to find a solution to the dispute in the six "less complicated" areas in the first phase based on historical facts, ethnicity, administrative convenience, willingness of the people and their overall sense of sentiments and contiguity of the land in disputes. The disputed areas are Tarabari, Gizang, Hahim, Boklapara, Khanapara-Pillangkata and Ratacherra – falling under West Khasi Hills, East Jaintia Hills and Ri Bhoi of Meghalaya and Cachar, Kamrup (Metro) and Kamrup of Assam.

In due course, the two states constituted three regional committees each. The members of the committees, each headed by a Cabinet minister, visited the disputed areas and held public meetings. After a fair understanding of the problem, they submitted their reports to the respective governments.

Meanwhile, the opposition parties in both sides of the border, besides various organisations, are wary of a raw deal.

Yogi names portfolios of ministers, keeps 34 depts

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THREE days after a glittering swearing-in ceremony, Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath allocated portfolios to his ministers on Monday evening. The CM kept a total 34 departments with him, including home, vigilance, housing, urban planning and administrative reforms.

He took the crucial Public Works Department (PWD) from Deputy CM Keshav Prasad Maurya, who has now been given rural development along with six other departments, including rural engineering, entertainment tax, food processing, public enterprises and national integration. The PWD portfolio has been given to Congress turncoat Jitin Prasada, who had joined the BJP in June 2021 and is now an MLC.

The other Deputy CM Brijesh Pathak has been entrusted with the responsibility of all the streams of health department including medical education, health and family welfare and mother and child welfare. Arvind Kumar Sharma, the ex-IAS officer of Gujarat cadre and supposedly close to PM Narendra Modi, has been given five portfolios including urban development, power, urban employment and poverty alleviation and non-conventional energy sources.

Nine-time MLA from Shahjahanpur, Suresh Kumar Khanna, will retain his previous portfolios of finance and parliamentary affairs and Surya Pratap Shahi will also look after agriculture like before.

State BJP chief Swatantra Dev Singh will be the new jal shakti minister.

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

THE fate of Mukesh Sahani, founding chief of the Vikassheel Inassan Party (VIP), has finally been sealed. He was sacked from the council of ministers on Monday after the governor Phagu Chauhan approved the recommendation of the Chief Minister Nitish Kumar for the same.

Sahani was appointed minister for animal husbandry and fisheries resources after being nominated as a member of legislative council (MLC) from its ally, BJP, quota in 2020. He remained as minister for 469 days. He was included in the cabinet despite losing in the assembly election held in October-November in 2020.

The trouble for Sahani, however, does not end here. Highly placed sources said a detailed investigation would be conducted by an investigating agency into the works of the department held by Sahani. Complaints of financial irregularities in execution of schemes were received earlier. However, they remained under wraps for obvious reasons.

The BJP Rajya Sabha member Vivek Thakur hinted at a probe likely to be conducted into the animal husbandry and fisheries resources department's works during the tenure of the VIP chief.

"We have substantial evidence to prove the charges levelled against the minister," the leader told the media last week.

Sahani's decision to expand his party, which he had formed in 2015, proved fatal for his political career.

Punjab see red over Central service rules for Chandigarh employees

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah's announcement on Sunday that the service conditions of employees of Chandigarh administration will now be aligned to that of the central civil services has evoked sharp reactions from political parties in Punjab. They alleged that the Centre's move was an infringement on the rights of the state and violation of the Punjab Reorganisation Act, 1966.

Leaders of the AAP, SAD and Congress alleged that the move was aimed at diluting Punjab's claim over Chandigarh – a Union territory and joint capital of Punjab and Haryana – and was another big blow to the rights of the state after changes in the Bhakra Beas Management Board rules.

"Centre has been stepwise imposing officers and personnel from other states and services in the Chandigarh administration. This goes against the letter and spirit of Punjab Reorganisation Act 1966. Punjab will fight strongly for its rightful claim over Chandigarh," CM Bhagwant Mann tweeted on Monday.

Finance Minister Harpal Singh Cheema accused the Centre of taking "anti-Punjab decisions" and said the state government would fight the issue from "streets to Parliament".

Shah in Chandigarh on Sunday | PTI

The SAD requested the CM to call an all-party meeting and unitedly approach the Centre.

Why the move has raised hackles of political parties

The home minister announcement means that the central civil services rules will now apply to employees of Chandigarh administration who were till now governed by the Punjab service rules.

As per the Punjab Reorganisation Act, 60 per cent employees in Chandigarh administration have to be from Punjab and 40 per cent from Haryana. However, Punjab parties alleged this ratio is not being followed for sometime as IAS officers of Arunachal Pradesh-Goa-Mizoram-Union Territories (AGMUT) cadre have outnumbered their counterparts from Punjab and Haryana.

Moreover, Delhi, Andaman and Nicobar Islands Civil Service cadre officers are also being appointed now.

State to promote mixed tree plantation on forest land

The forest, environment and climate change department of the Jharkhand government has planned to grow and promote Minor Forest Produce (MFP) yielding trees such as arjun, palash, gooseberry, semal, aasan, karam trees, etc in forest lands across Jharkhand in 2022-23. According to forest officials, the population living near the forests can derive benefits from these trees in the coming decade as forest land is precious resource which should be utilised judiciously. They also informed that the plan is to cover 3,000 hectares of forest land all across Jharkhand with these trees. Compensatory Afforestation Fund Management and Planning Authority (CAMPA) will allot a sum of around `40 crore for plantation of MFP trees.

Cast and crew of CODA accept the award for Best Picture at the Dolby Theatre in Hollywood | AFP

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

WHEN Denis Villeneuve's space opera Dune earned 10 Oscar nominations earlier this year, it hinted at resounding wins, at least in the technical categories. With the Oscar's evening now past us, the predictions have come true with the sci-fi actioner winning six awards (the most won by a single film this year), and sweeping most of the technical categories, including sound (Mac Ruth, Mark Mangini, Theo Green, Doug Hemphill and Ron Bartlett), original score (Hans Zimmer's second win in the category), editing (Joe Walker), production design (Patrice Vermette and Zsuzsanna Sipos), cinematography (Greig Fraser's first) and finally, the lifeline of modern blockbusters, visual effects (Paul Lambert, Tristan Myles, Brian Connor and Gerd Nefzer).

OSCARS 2022

The big surprise of the evening came in the form CODA bagging the coveted Best Picture prize. While it remains one of the most celebrated films of 2021, award pundits did not deem it to be a front-runner in a category that was populated by dominant titles such as Dune, The Power of the Dog (which led the pack with 12 nominations), West Side Story (the Steven Speilberg directorial earned seven nominations) and Belfast (once again, seven). Interestingly, CODA won in all the three categories it received nominations in. Troy Kotsur made Oscars history as the first deaf man to win an acting award following his win in the Best Supporting Actor category for CODA. Kotsur's acceptance speech in sign language, where he cited his father, "the best signer in the family," as his primary inspiration, was undoubtedly the most profound moment.

WINNERS ALL

Best actor: Will Smith

Best actress: Jessica Chastain

Best supporting actor: Troy Kotsur

Russia shifts focus, tries to grind Ukraine army in east

KYIV

WITH its aspirations for a quick victory dashed by a stiff Ukrainian resistance, Russia has increasingly focused on grinding down Ukraine's military in the east in the hope of forcing Kyiv into surrendering part of the country's territory to possibly end the war. The bulk of the Ukrainian army is concentrated in eastern Ukraine, where it has been locked up in fighting with Moscow-backed separatists in a nearly eight-year conflict. If Russia succeeds in encircling and destroying the Ukrainian forces in the country's industrial heartland called Donbas, it could try to dictate its terms to Kyiv and, possibly, attempt to split the country in two.

The US has decided to spend $6.9 billion to help Ukraine. Agencies

Shopee shuts operations in India

The company said this decision was taken considering the global market uncertainties

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

SINGAPORE-based e-commerce firm Shopee, part of the Sea group, which launched its operations six months ago in India, has ceased operations from 29th March, 12 am.

The company said this decision was taken considering global market uncertainties. "Rest assured that all orders placed before this date will continue to be fulfilled as usual, and after-sale services and support will continue to be available to all users who have made purchases on our platform," it said.

Earlier this month, the Sea group, which is backed by Tencent, announced that Shopee is pulling out of France, and that the site will close on March 6.

When asked about the surprising exit, Shopee in a statement to TNIE said, "In view of global market uncertainties, we have decided to close our early-stage Shopee India initiative." It employs close to 300 staff and onboarded over 20,000 local sellers in India.

Sources familiar with the development said the company was performing very well in India, but had to exit due to macro-level reasons and also because of weak growth outlook. Some of the Indian employees are likely to be placed with the Sea group in Southeast Asian countries. The rest will be paid three months' severance package. The company' exit also comes at a time when the Indian government banned Sea's popular gaming app Free Fire. Soon after the ban, it had lost $16 billion in market cap.

On Shopee's withdrawal, Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) Secretary General Praveen Khandelwal said, "All companies violating Sovereign Indian laws and breaching data privacy shall meet the same fate." CAIT has been saying that Shopee is operating in India against FEMA Rules and FDI Press Note of 2020.

Shopee competed with e-commerce firms like Flipkart, Meesho and Amazon. It had aggressive plans for the country.

On shutting down of Shopee, Abhay Mishra, President, Prahar, a non-profit organisation, said the decision of Tencent controlled SEA Limited to completely exit India with the shutting down of Shopee and Garena Free Fire is a vindication of our fight against Chinese controlled companies.

No plans to pay in Rupee for crude oil from Russia: Govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE government on Monday informed that it has no plans to pay in Rupees for the purchase of crude oil from Russia. Minister of State for Petroleum and Natural Gas Rameswar Teli, in a written reply in Rajya Sabha said oil public sector undertakings have no such contract or proposal under consideration from Russia or any other country.

"At present, oil public sector undertakings neither have any contract nor is any such proposal under consideration from Russia or any other country for the purchase of crude oil in Indian rupees," Minister of State for Petroleum and Natural Gas Rameswar Teli said in a written reply to the Rajya Sabha.

India is the world's third-largest oil consumer and it imports to meet 85% of its needs. It mainly imports from the Middle East, Africa and North America. From Russia, India imported 43,400 barrels per day of oil in 2021, making up for less than 1% of all oil imports. India also buys 2.5 million tonnes of LNG a year from Gazprom of Russia.

However, the invasion of Russia on Ukraine has promoted many countries to stop dealing with Russian companies. It led to Russian crude being available in the market at deep discounts and gave a way to talk of a rupee trade for the oil and gas purchases. Recently, Indian Oil Corporation (IOC) has bought two parcels or shiploads of distressed Russian oil through traders at deep discounts. IOC bought three million barrels in each trade through European trader Vitol. Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd (HPCL) bought two million barrels of Russian crude Urals through a trader.

India believes Western countries haven't banned oil and energy trade with Russia as they did with Iran, over its controversial nuclear programme.

Ruchi Soya FPO: Investors given option to withdraw bids by Sebi

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

IN a setback for Ruchi Soya's ₹4,300 crore follow on public offer (FPO), capital markets regulator Sebi has directed the book-running lead managers (BRLMs) to give all investors, except anchor book participants, the option of withdrawing their bids because of unsolicited SMSEs advertising the issue.

The content of these SMSes "prima facie" appears to be "misleading /fraudulent" and not in consonance with Sebi (Issue of Capital and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2018, Sebi noted. SBI Caps, Axis Capital and ICICI Securities are the BRLMs to the FPO.

The option for withdrawal will be available from March 28-30.

The withdrawal procedure will be informed to the investors and be part of an advertisement to be issued by the BRLMs on March 28 and 29. The FPO ran from March 24-28.

The advertisement will caution investors of the circulation of unsolicited SMSes. It will be made in the same size as issued for other statutory ads and in the same newspaper as the issue advertisement.

The BRLMs will also send an SMS to all the applicants of the receiving bids informing them of the additional window of withdrawal, which they can avail of. Stock exchanges and depositories will provide all the information for the completion of Sebi's direction to the BRLMs.

Ruchi Soya's FPO was subscribed 3.6 times with the retail portion being subscribed 90% on the closing date of March 28.

The FPO of the Patanjali Ayurved–owned Ruchi Soya aims to raise ₹4300 crore to make it a debt-free company.

In 2019, Patanjali acquired Ruchi Soya through the insolvency process for ₹4325 crore.

Ruchi Soya owns brands like Mahakosh, Sunrich and Ruchi Gold.

PVR, Inox shares jump, analysts divided over return

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

PVR and Inox Leisure's decision to merge operations and form a 1,500+ pan-India screen network was widely welcomed by the investor community as the two stocks hit fresh 52-week high on Monday.

PVR share price soared 10% and Inox's share price jumped 20% intraday. The stocks then witnessed profit booking and PVR ended the session 3.5% higher at ₹1,886, while that of Inox Leisure ended 12% higher at ₹525 a piece.

Market experts now have different opinions on the two stocks as some believe the merger means a greater synergy while some believe OTT platforms will continue to hamper multiplex business.

"The merged entity would be a stronger one and could command a premium, given possibilities of synergies driving earnings upgrade. The swap ratio favours Inox shareholders slightly, using current market caps as the benchmark. A 15x target multiple on the combined EBITDA would yield a March 2023 target price of ₹2,300 per share for the post-merger PVR stock and ₹690 for Inox. In such a scenario, we see 47% upside on Inox and 28% upside on PVR vs Friday's close (assuming slightly higher target multiple but not building in any merger synergies)," said analysts at JM Financials. The share swap ratio stands at three shares of PVR for 10 shares of Inox.

Mumbai-based brokerage firm Motilal Oswal expects PVR shares to decline by 12% to ₹1,600 from its Friday's closing price of ₹1,828 and maintained a neutral rating on the stock, citing rich valuation and risk posed by OTT platforms.

Abhay Agarwal, Founder, and Fund Manager, Piper Serica, a SEBI Registered Portfolio Management Service Provider, said that those who believe that the merged entity will create a strong business can buy the shares for the long term, but the short-term traders looking for a quick upside may be disappointed. He said the multiplex business is a very tough business with high capex and high fixed opex.

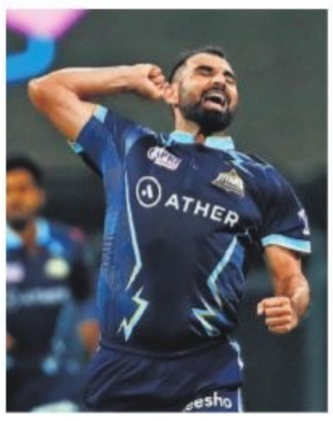
Titans come out on top in battle of newcomers

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @CHENNAI

KL Rahul has been in these kind of situations previously. While he's obviously a good batter, his captaincy skills can be found wanting. In 2020 captaining Punjab Kings, he infamously tossed the ball to K Gowtham in the 20th over with Kieron Pollard and Hardik Pandya waiting. They predictably feasted.

At the Wankhede stadium on Monday, Rahul once again showed his weakness. Avesh Khan, last year's second highest wicket-taker, and Dushmantha Chameera, Sri Lanka's express quick who rocked Gujarat Titans' top-order with two wickets in his opening spell, had two overs each to bowl. Lucknow Super Giants had already bowled 15 overs so it was simple maths. Bowl out your two quicks with Mohsin Khan to bowl the other. With a very wet ball, the last thing you want is hand the ball to somebody like Deepak Hooda or Ravi Bishnoi.

With lots of dew on the ground, spinners were already facing problems gripping the ball. But Rahul, bizarrely, decided to opt for Hooda to bowl the 15th and he followed that act by throwing the ball to leg-spinner Bishnoi in the 16th. That act of self sabotage, in the end, cost Lucknow a debut victory. With five overs left, Gujarat needed 68. The next 12 balls yielded three sixes and as many fours as Rahul Tewatia and David Miller couldn't believe their luck. Both spinners were having problems in gripping the ball so they landed it in the swinging arc of both batters. By the time Avesh was back, the equation was 28 off 18.



Mohammed Shami | SPORTZPICS

In the end, the duo, and a nerveless, unbeaten cameo from the young Abhinav Manohar (15 from 7) took Gujarat home with two balls remaining. Credit must also go to Hardik Pandya too who gave the initial thrust with a flurry of boundaries through the leg-side after walking in at No 4. That he also bowled four overs suggests he's approaching full fitness.

Earlier, Gujarat reduced Lucknow to 29/4 thanks to a fiery spell of bowling from Mohammed Shami. Bowling that Test match length, he challenged both edges as well as brought all three stumps in play. What was superb about Shami's incisive three-over burst (a wicket in each over, 13 dots and one boundary) was he made every ball a standalone event.

His very first ball accounted for Rahul. The Lucknow skipper tried to leave the ball with that unique stance of his but the ball just about kissed his outside edge and Matthew Wade completed a regulation catch.

In the next over, Quinton de Kock lost his middle peg as an in-swinger easily found the gap between bat and pad. In his third, he produced a gem that ought to be in a cricketing museum. It pitched on a good length area, beat the inside edge of Manish Pandey's uncertain blade before gently removing the off bail. Credit must also go to Pandya for bowling Shami for one more over because there could have been a tendency to keep two of his overs for the end (in his previous franchise, Punjab Kings, Shami has almost always been used as a 2-2 bowler). Not on Monday.

BRIEF SCORES
Lucknow 158/6 in 20 ovs (Hooda 55, Badoni 54, Shami 3/25) lost to Gujarat 161/5 in 19.4 ovs (Tewatia 40 n.o).

Prannoy sets small goals to retain momentum

MARTIN JOSEPH @ KOCHI

FOR HS Prannoy, it is all about taking small steps these days as he looks to try and get back to his best. The 29-year-old made his first Tour final since 2017 when he reached the men's final of the Swiss Open on Sunday.

Over the course of two games, Prannoy was beaten by Jonatan Christie 21-12, 21-18. Instead of feeling dejected, Prannoy wants to focus on the positives and believe that it is important to keep the momentum going.

"It was the third week of tournaments for us and to play a final in the third week is always tough. The body gets to a point where it is a little tired and you are not 100 per cent. I think I felt the fatigue (in the final) because the semifinal was a little draining. The legs were not really fresh for me. I was struggling to move quickly and I think for the first time in the last three weeks, I was feeling a bit slower in the movements. And I think that's why I was a little impatient in the first game," Prannoy told this daily on Monday.

The semifinal was a marathon affair against Indonesia's World No 5 Anthony Ginting with the Indian winning the contest 21-19, 19-21, 21-18.

Having battled a series of injuries throughout his career, Prannoy felt that it was just about trying to do the best at the moment. A final in almost five years is something to build on, but Prannoy feels that thinking too far ahead isn't the best course of action at the moment.

"The most important thing is to consistently play at a certain level and get better. I think I've been able to do that in the last six months and I'm able to play continuously at a good level. I've not kept big targets. The targets are not to win big tournaments or win a Super Series. The targets are very simple and small ones where I take care of the body and enjoy playing each and every round. That's the bigger target for me rather than playing a Super Series final because that gives a lot of pressure as such and you may not be able to perform at your best when you put that kind of pressure on yourself," the shuttler from Thiruvananthapuram said.

SHOWTIME FOR RR & SRH

After a tumultuous campaign, how will Sunrisers Hyderabad embrace change? And what of Rajasthan Royals, who have prime spin options. A look at Tuesday's IPL match-up...

Curious auctions

David Warner and Rashid Khan are no longer there and after a poor season, how will the franchise approach the new season? Their auction strategy was interesting in the sense they plumped for a few proven Indian performers, both capped and uncapped (Rahul Tripathi, Washington Sundar, Kartik Tyagi).

Wait and watch

Predicting how the Royals will line up is a fool's errand. At least 16 of the 20 overs (the other four will likely be bowled by Trent Boult) will be bowled by Indians so they can pack their top-order with overseas batters.

Indian interest

There will be a few in the national set-up who will be watching this match closely because of the number of Indians, either in with a shout of making the WC squad. Sundar, Samson, Umran Malik, Abdul Samad.

India men's 3x3 basketball team on the rise in FIBA rankings

AGENCIES @ NEW DELHI:

THE Indian men's 3x3 basketball team had jumped from 70th to 16th spot in global rankings recently, thanks to the third season of the 3x3 Pro Basketball League (3BL) that was held in Mohali from March 8 to 21. The league was conducted with the backing of Basketball Federation of India (BFI) and the International Basketball Federation (FIBA). However, given that many other leagues are on, their ranking has dropped to 22nd (as on March 28). Nevertheless, the rise is remarkable for the Indians and if they can stay within the top-20, they could possibly be in contention of taking part in the Paris Olympic qualifiers.

Archer Deepika fails to qualify for Asian Games

AGENCIES @ Sonepat

Deepika Kumari has failed to make the squad for the upcoming Asian Games, suffering one of the biggest setbacks in her career. Deepika lost two of her three round-robin matches in the final leg to miss the Asian Games berth at the Sports Authority of India centre here on Sunday.

Deepika had finished a lowly-fifth in the two-phase eliminations on Saturday to determine the top-eight. The Asian Games will take place in Hangzhou from September 10-25.

This is for the first time since 2010 that she will be missing out on a big-ticket multi-discipline. In the round-robin phase, Deepika finished with one point to fall behind, as Ankita Bhakat (3.25) and Simranjeet Kaur (2) joined reigning national champion Ridhi Phor.

China's biggest lockdown in Shanghai

Two-phase lockdown in city of 25 million will help authorities carry out mass testing amid a surge in Covid cases

COVID

BEIJING: China began its most extensive coronavirus lockdown in two years on Monday to conduct mass testing and control a growing outbreak in Shanghai as questions are raised about the economic toll of the nation's 'zero-Covid' strategy.

Shanghai, China's financial capital and largest city with 26 million people, had managed its smaller previous outbreaks with limited lockdowns of housing compounds and workplaces where the virus was spreading. But the citywide lockdown that will be conducted in two phases will be China's most extensive since the central city of Wuhan, where the virus was first detected in late 2019, confined its 11 million people to their homes for 76 days in early 2020. Millions more have been kept in lockdown since then.

Shanghai's Pudong financial district and nearby areas will be locked down from Monday to Friday as mass testing gets underway, the local government said. In the second phase of the lockdown, the vast downtown area west of the Huangpu River that divides the city will start its own five-day lockdown Friday. Residents will be required to stay home and deliveries will be left at checkpoints to ensure there is no contact with the outside world. Offices and all businesses not considered essential will be closed and public transport suspended.

Already, many communities within Shanghai have been locked down for the past week, with their housing compounds blocked off with blue and yellow plastic barriers and residents required to submit to multiple tests for Covid-19. Shanghai's Disneyland theme park is among the businesses that closed earlier. Automaker Tesla is also suspending production at its Shanghai plant, according to media reports.

Now even people's basic livelihood has become a problem. Those who aren't locked down fight for food, and those who are sit up all night trying to order food on apps

A Shanghai resident

Panic-buying was reported on Sunday, with supermarket shelves cleared of food, beverages and household items. Additional barriers were being erected in neighborhoods Monday, with workers in hazmat suits staffing checkpoints.

In-person observations of the April 5 Tomb Sweeping Festival have been canceled and memorials will instead be held online. Some workers, including traders at the city's stock market, were preparing to stay within a Covid-19 'bubble" for the duration of the lockdown.

Li Jiamin, 31, who works in the finance industry, said she had packed several days of clothing and supplies, and her company was sorting out sleeping and eating arrangements.

"The overall impact is still great," Li told The Associated Press, pointing especially to losses suffered by workers in the informal sector who have no such support. Huang Qi, 35, who works at a local university, said he had undergone a lockdown at home before and prepared for the new round by stocking up.

"I think if the closure continues like this, our school workers will not be affected much, but what about those who work in the real economy? How can their business be maintained?" Huang said.

Arctic research could be a casualty of Ukraine war

CLIMATE CHANGE

PARIS : Without Russian help, climate scientists worry how they'll keep up their important work of documenting warming in the Arctic.

Europe's space agency is wrestling with how its planned Mars rover might survive freezing nights on the Red Planet without its Russian heating unit. And what of the world's quest for carbon-free energy if 35 nations cooperating on an experimental fusion-power reactor in France can't ship vital components from Russia?

In scientific fields with profound implications for mankind's future and knowledge, Russian President Vladimir Putin's war in Ukraine is causing a swift and broad decaying of relationships and projects that bound together Moscow and the West. Post-Cold War bridge-building through science is unraveling as Western nations seek to punish and isolate the Kremlin by drying up support for scientific programs involving Russia.

The costs of this decoupling, scientists say, could be high on both sides. Tackling climate change and other problems will be tougher without collaboration and time will be lost. Russian and Western scientists have become dependent on each other's expertise as they have worked together on conundrums from unlocking the power of atoms to firing probes into space. Picking apart the dense web of relationships will be complicated.

The European Space Agency's planned Mars rover with Russia is an example. Arrays of Russian sensors to sniff, scour and study the planet's environment may have to be unbolted and replaced and a non-Russian launcher rocket found if the suspension of their collaboration becomes a lasting rupture. In that case, the launch, already scrubbed for this year, couldn't happen before 2026.

"We need to untangle all this cooperation which we had, and this is a very complex process, a painful one I can also tell you," the ESA director, Josef Aschbacher, said in an Associated Press interview.

FORESTS DO MORE THAN JUST CAPTURE CARBON

Apart from carbon sequestration, a recent study found other chemical processes play a significant role in helping trees bring down temperatures

> The biophysical factors don't cool the planet, but they do change the way we experience heat, and that matters
> Deborah Lawrence, professor at the University of Virginia

861 gigatons of carbon held by the world's forests. This is equal to a century worth of fossil fuel emission

ROLE OF BIOCHEMICAL FACTORS

Forests' capacity to capture and store atmospheric carbon is well-known. However, the new study found that about one-third of the cooling effect comes from many other processes like the release of water vapor and aerosols

COOLING EFFECT

According to American scientists, trees release chemicals called biogenic volatile organic compounds. These chemicals create aerosols, which reflect sunlight and help cool the surrounding areas

Apart from that, a range of biophysical factors such as deep roots, efficient utilisation of water also play significant roles in reducing the impact of extreme heat, The Guardian reported

NEW INSIGHTS

The role of forests in shaping the climate of their localities through various physical and chemical processes is well documented

The latest study evaluated how these other cooling benefits compared with the cooling provided by the forests' capturing of carbon dioxide

In the tropical regions where carbon sequestration rates by the forests are at their highest, these biochemical effects amplify the cooling effect

HELPFUL FEATURES

Deep roots, efficient water use and canopy roughness also enable forests to mitigate the impact of extreme heat. Several studies have shown that physical qualities such as deep roots allow trees to store water underground and release it during dry spells, helping cool the soil beneath the surface

'TREES ABSORB MORE CO_2 THAN THEY EMIT'

A recent study found that forests sucked in more carbon dioxide than previously reported. "On a global scale, this will have large implications potentially for the carbon cycle if more carbon is being transferred from the atmosphere into trees," Justin Mathias, a researcher said. Earlier, studies had shown that forests suck up twice as much carbon as they absorb. Researchers say forests absorb close to 30% of carbon released through fossil fuel emission

DAY'S DIARY

Niagara doesn't fall

An upstream ice jam stopped almost all water flow over Niagara falls on this day in 1848, during midnight, for 30 to 40 hours

THE REASON

This was because of the strong southwest winds that pushed huge chunks of lake ice to the extreme northeastern tip of Lake Erie, blocking it's outlet to the falls

CONSEQUENCE

As a result, the riverbed was exposed, many fish died and turtles floundered. Thousands of people filled churches to pray for the falls to start flowing again

PRAYERS ANSWERED

At night on March 31, a distant rumble came from upriver, and suddenly, a wall of water came roaring down the upper Niagara river and the falls

ROYAL SHOWCASE

Explore the rich culture of India with Royal Fables as they showcase crafts, couture and cuisines of Princely India in Bengaluru for the first time

MONIKA MONALISA

A chiffon saree paired with a set of pearls... this simple yet iconic look by Gayatri Devi, late Maharani of Jaipur, is still one of the go-to styles to look like royalty. Indian royal families are known for their fine taste in art, food and couture and have always supported local craft. The patrons from the same family are now carrying the baton to continue the cultural lineage. Royal Fables, a community that brings these patrons, known for showcasing crafts, couture and cuisines of princely states, is presenting their works in Bengaluru for the first time. The event will be attended by Pramoda Devi Wadiyar, member of Mysore Royal Family, Radhikaraje Gaekwad, the Maharani of Baroda, and Ambika Raje Ghorpade of Sandur to name a few.

For Ghorpade, it is not the first Royal Fables event. "I won't call myself a textile revivalist, whether it is weaves or sarees. But during the last few Fables, I purchased Mysore silk sarees and the Lambani sarees, which my father-in-law (M Y Ghorpade) worked towards reviving," says Ghorpade. She is also looking forward to meeting patrons from other royal families during the event. "It is very nice that the event is bringing together many royal families from across the country. This gives a boost to our initiatives," says Ghorpade.

This was the boost that Anshu Khanna was looking for when she started Royal Fables in 2009. "I found these wonderful girls who do spectacular craft work but are too shy to talk about it. This is my way to get them out and recreate what they have inherited," says Khanna, adding that it took some time for her to get the Fables to Bengaluru.

The exhibition, which is happening in association with FICCI FLO's 10th year anniversary, will also showcase garments from different princely states to support traditional weavers. Revathi Raju, FICCI FLO Bangalore chapter head, says the exhibition will focus primarily on textiles and crafts that will give Bengalureans the opportunity to explore different weaves in the country. "I had heard so much about Royal Fables and I always wanted to bring it down to the South. The members of erstwhile royal families of India work with the craftsmen and weavers of their states to keep the art going," says Raju.

The exhibition will be held on Mar 29 at The Leela Palace Bengaluru, Old Airport Road.

Dreams coming true

It was a pleasant surprise for city-based artist Surya Shetty, when his favourite actor Deepika Padukone selected his fan art post on her social media handle... The artist has minted the art work as NFT

MONIKA MONALISA

IT is not everyday that you wake up to your idol appreciating the work you have done. For Surya Shetty, it turned into a reality when his 3D art of Deepika Padukone was picked by the actress herself. Padukone, who is trying to reach more of her fans through her social media handle, recently did a fun search for her name tag on Instagram and picked seven fan art from across the country and Shetty was one of them. He was the only Bengalurean to make it to the list. She posted all the art work on her Instagram handle and captioned it, "Went through my tags and found some gold" to which her actor-husband Ranveer Singh quirkily replied, "Byoodiful".

Currently 25-year-old artist, who is known as unrest_mind on Instagram, has minted the artwork as NFT.

Shetty, who also mentioned that the post by actor made his "whole year", did a digital caricature of Padukone as Mastani of the movie Bajirao Mastani. "It was a pleasant surprise for me. I didn't know about it but had a hint of it when one of her team members who handles her social media contacted me. Later, my friends started texting me about it," says city-based Shetty, who is a marketing professional. An avid fan of Padukone, Shetty particular picked this look of the actor from Sanjay Leela Bhansali's movie because of it's elegance and drama. "I love the costume and elegance her look holds. The gold and white combination looks cinematic too," says Shetty, who is currently working on a caricature series on Padukone.

Even if he has been working on similar artworks since 2017, he found this one to be particularly challenging.

"Caricaturing someone is not about making the subject look beautiful. Instead, it's mostly about exaggerating their flaws. Padukone is so beautiful that it was difficult for me to make her look funny," laughs Shetty.

Of course, an exposure like this definitely cannot be hidden from people. His Instagram inbox is flooded the congratulatory messages along with special requests too. "More than congratulatory messages people are requesting similar art for themselves. But the moment I tell them how much I charge for my artwork, they no longer reply," says Shetty, adding that his digital art usually starts from a price of ₹10,000.

FIT BIT

UNMANI MUDRA
(HEAD GESTURE)

This asana describes a state of transition between two states of consciousness — waking and dreaming. The word unmani is also sometimes used to mean samadhi or one of the levels of samadhi, or the final limb of Patanjali's eightfold path of yoga. In addition to unmani, the transition states are Aladani (between dreaming and deep sleep) and samadhi (between deep sleep and Turiya). This mudra is a meditative practice in which the yogi attains a state free from thoughts.

STEPS

- Sit in any comfortable meditative pose.
- Then, open your eyes to the fullest without straining them.
- Inhale slowly and deeply.
- Retain the breath inside and shift the focus to Bindu (imagine a point at the back of the forehead).
- Exhale gradually, descending in awareness from Bindu through the chakras in the spine. This follows the order: Ajna, Vishuddha, Anahata, Manipura, Swadhisthana and Muladhara.
- Now, gradually close your eyes.
- You can allow yourself to go through this process spontaneously and effortlessly.
- Then, inhale again to begin the next round.
- You can repeat the process for 11 rounds.

BENEFITS

- This has relieving effects on psychological issues, like stress, anxiety, and agitation.
- It brings forth joy, focus, and inner glory.
- It soothes and calms the mind by leading the practitioner towards attaining samadhi.
- This saturates the practitioner with sattva (goodness).
- It brings all the mental chatter, confusion, and analysis to a halt.
- It stimulates all the energy chakras and brings mental and physical harmony.
- It balances all three doshas and tissues of the body.

LIMITATIONS

- People who have glaucoma, have had recent eye surgery and vision problems like diabetic retinopathy, must avoid this.
- Practising this mudra is recommended in the early morning.
- It must be practised for a duration of five to ten minutes.
- Always try this gesture on an empty stomach.

ruchita@newindianexpress.com

MANY a times, during social gatherings such as weddings, baby showers etc, I have overheard women talking rather openly. Once I listened to a mother proudly declaring how her son does not 'permit' his newlywed wife to work, although she keeps expressing her wish to do so. Another time, it was about how a woman's brother 'subdues' his wife whenever she objected to his excessive drinking.

A recent news report about a journalist from a reputed news organisation found dead in her home, unable to bear domestic violence, came as a shocker to Bengalureans. Many of my friends said she could have easily sought help as she had easy access to it. Having heard numerous women who have been subjected to abuse by their spouses/relatives, I have learnt one thing — one may preach courage from the gallery but it is a sinister, menacing situation for the victim who is under constant threat from someone she is supposed to trust, under the auspices of her own home. It may be a little girl, a teenager, a young woman or a wife — it takes a lot of strength to realise that what you are facing is completely wrong.

Such toxic situations of domestic abuse always involve control issues. I would often see a classmate of mine with awful-looking marks on her hands and legs after our marks cards were sent home. She never spoke of it. A senior friend of mine told me she used to be hit by her father even when she was doing her master's degree. In case of marital abuse, these traits come to the fore in the first few years of the marriage itself. Strangely, this is one crime that is evenly spread across all classes. Almost all of the house helps that I have had told me dreadful stories of their husbands beating them, while I have been dumbfounded by the number of highly educated men who torture their wives.

I recall there was a campaign on TV called 'BellBajao' (ring the doorbell) a few years ago that encouraged neighbours to interfere whenever they heard abuse happening in a household nearby. Under these circumstances, even calling the helpline takes a lot of courage for the victim who has been battered physically and mentally by her own kin. Also, there is the danger of your own family members trying to normalise the whole situation — by playing peacemakers, choosing to ignore it, downplay it, or even worse, joking about it.

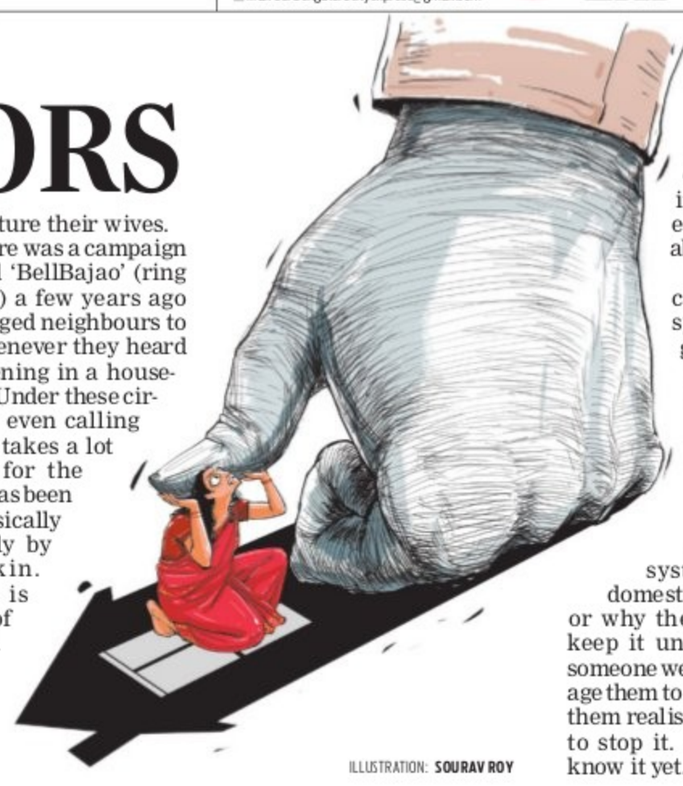

ILLUSTRATION: SOURAV ROY

I think teaching children about respecting the other gender, personal space and choices should be an important part of our academic curricula. We need to ask ourselves if we have created an organic support system for victims of domestic abuse to survive, or why the victims prefer to keep it under wraps. If it is someone we know, let us encourage them to speak about it. Make them realise they have a choice to stop it. They may just not know it yet.

This 23-year-old Bengalurean is making the right noises in the esports space which is mostly dominated by men

GAME PLAN

EXPRESS FEATURES

THINK gaming and one usually associates it to be a male-dominated space. However, the esports industry is changing over the years with girls making their entry and gradually changing its landscape in the country. Just like Bengaluru girl Aastha Savya Sachi, who is making the right noises in the industry.

She wants to make a difference and ensure that girls can match boys in terms of performance. When she was 12, she started playing IGI, and by the time she was 14, she was involved in Counter-Strike Global Offensive. But as a 19-year-old, when Sachi started playing the popular PubG Season 5, she met people who thought girls were a 'liability' in it.

"When I first started playing PubG, I was exploring and having fun. But I soon encountered people who thought girls were a liability as it's a team game. That was the exact moment when I decided to become so good at this game that people would admire me," says Sachi, who currently represents an all-girls team called Godlike All Girls. There are six girls in the team hailing from different cities, including Pune and Jaipur. As of now, they compete in Battleground India.

The 23-year-old has won many team competitions, including Rooter Underdogs 3.0 and Battlegrounds India Girls Championship. Though she does manage to make some money via her winnings, her major source of income is from her profession as a software engineer. She tries to strike a balance between the two, but it has been quite hard for Sachi to make her parents understand what esports means to her.

However, Sachi is 100 per cent sure that she is never going to stop playing. Besides being a top player, she has other major goals too, which includes bringing about a change in the mindset of people when it comes to women in esports. That is what keeps her charged up and motivated as well. Her suggestion to all other girls in the industry is simple — 'Keep up the grind and show them your worth'.

"Gaming and girls don't usually go together according to society. That is why I want other girls to prove them wrong. It's all about equality. Differences are always there when you outperform an excellent player. Friends tend to say, "How can a girl defeat you?" This change will take time. When the ratio difference of girls to boys in esports is negligible, the mindset will change," she says.

Though she and her team have done quite well in competitions, Sachi is looking at delivering the goods at a global tournament. With the competition that exists, she is aware of the growing demands of the game and believes they need to prepare furthermore. "I don't exactly know the definition of success in this category, but people respecting me and accepting that girls play well is a success. As an esports player, I want to perform and win a global level tournament; we are preparing for that, but we are not even halfway," says Sachi.

Animated AVATAR

IF you are just beginning to learn to sing, it is important to choose the right songs. And songs from animated movies are ideal for beginners in the western vocal space. A number of factors play into this. Firstly, they are generally not as long as other songs, and are not as hard to manage as a beginner. Second, since they are popular and catchy, most people can easily hum along while the song is playing. Finally, the lyrics and tune are easy enough to learn by heart. These are all great reasons to begin your journey with music through animated film songs.

Most singing tips are applicable across a wide variety of musical styles. So, if you're looking to learn and perform a fun new song, here are some tips that might help:

Practise vocal warmups before you begin

As the name suggests, vocal warmups are similar to the warmups you do before going for a run. They stretch your vocal cords, clear your throat, and help you relax and get into the right space before singing. They also help you manage your breathing more effectively while you sing.

Maintain a good posture while singing

Many a times, a singers voices improve drastically just with a quick postural fix. Start by standing straight, keeping your chest comfortably lifted, and ensuring that you're not leaning backwards or forwards. These are simple steps to help you get a great head start.

Learn more about the bigger picture

It's important to understand how instruments, production, and songwriting factor into the song as a whole. This will help you work on your part with more focus.

Don't force yourself

Most importantly, remember — if you have to force your voice and if you feel like something hurts, then you are doing something wrong. This can lead to long-term voice strain, and can slow down the progress you have made this far. While singing higher notes, find ways to open up your voice instead of singing in a falsetto or forcing your voice box to hit the notes.

The best way to gain control over your voice is to start by practising everyday, no matter where you are. Develop your own practice schedule that includes some warmup exercises, singing, and learning lyrics. With time, you will be able to put your own unique spin on classic tunes.

Making room

IN relationships, when one person starts to spend a lot of time with another person, whether they move-in together or not, a key indicator of the seriousness or the longevity of the relationship is often the sharing of space for the other person's things. It can be as simple as bringing in a toothbrush and overnight clothes and keeping them in the partner's space, or the deliberate clearing up of space in a closet or wardrobe, or even whole rooms, for clothes and things.

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan
(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

It gets more intense when you need space for not just a few sets of clothes, personal toiletries and electronics, but also for other objects and aspects of each other's lives. It is one thing when people are meeting as carefree people, everyone with similar amounts of literal baggage, if not the emotional kind, and all making a home together. It is quite another when people have lived a while on their own and have accumulated a life of their own, complete with all that it means like furniture, kitchen appliances, electronics, art, shoes and all such things. When we meet as such individuals with pretty full lives and fuller homes, and are then thinking about spending more time together, moving in and making a home together can become a whole new challenge. It is one thing to make space for weekends or slightly more, and quite another if people are actually moving in together — whose couch gets to stay? Does the bigger TV stay and smaller screens kicked out? Whose bed stays? Do you keep the cappuccino maker or the traditional brass coffee filters?

Where people have even slightly different tastes and preferences, the act of merging households can be quite a task, given how many things and objects we get attached to over time. Most things are not just things but stories about our lives, marking events, relationships and times. We might keep a wobbly pressure cooker just because it was given by a favourite relative or be loathe to dispose of a faded chair with chipped legs just because those marks remind you of a beloved pet that went through its teething phase. Some things might be much simpler — like a set of shot glasses that an ex brought as a gift, or outdated electronics, but most objects do gather not just dust but sentiments, memories and nostalgia.

When making space for a loved one, we are not making space just for their clothes and objects, but for the person they have been before us, and all the things that are significant to them. How much space we make is important, but even more important is how we make that space for them. Do we hold space for all that a person has been, or do we expect and demand a whole new start or open it up little by little, pulling them into our lives, or really opening ourselves up as well, integrating with each other? Making heart space is one thing. Making space for each other's art can be something else altogether.

BRACE FOR ROCKY BHAI

At a star-studded event, the much-awaited trailer of Yash-Prashanth Neel's KGF Chapter 2 was unveiled

Team KGF

Yash

A SHARADHAA AND VIGNESH MADHU

When we met Rocky Bhai four years ago, little did we know that KGF would become the household name it is now. Cut to 2022, all eyes are now set on KGF: Chapter 2, which is scheduled to hit screens worldwide on April 14. Expectations on the Yash-starrer are humongous, and the world is waiting with bated breath to see what fate holds in store for the dreaded 'monster' from the gold mines of Kolar. On Sunday, the makers added to the hype by launching the film's trailer in a grand event that saw the presence of some of the biggest names in Indian cinema. The leading man's pan-Indian popularity was palpable when scores of North Indian fans cried their throats hoarse not for their very own Sanju baba, but the Rocking Star.

Filmmaker Karan Johar hosted the event, and in his trademark wit, opened the show by declaring, "It's time we all burn the Woods". He was referring to the blurring of language barriers and the need for Indian cinema to come together as one. Almost everyone who spoke later echoed his words.

The event began with tributes being paid to the late actor Puneeth Rajkumar. The chief guest of the event, Shivarajkumar extended his best wishes to the team, and formally launched the trailer of KGF Chapter 2. After watching the explosive trailer, Karnataka Minister CN Ashwath Narayan said, "Looks like this is on par with Hollywood cinema. Being a Kannadiga, this is a matter of pride for me."

Distributors of the pan-Indian film, which will be released in Kannada, Hindi, Tamil, Telugu, and Malayalam, also attended the event. Actor Prithviraj Sukumaran, who is releasing the Malayalam version, recounted meeting Yash after the release of the first part and interacting with him about the possibilities of the sequel. Prithviraj also heaped praise on Prashanth Neel and SS Rajamouli calling them "two distinct chapters in Indian cinema." He signed off by saying, "While the Baahubali films taught us to dream, KGF films made us believe in the dream." Farhan Akhtar, who has acquired the Hindi rights along with Anil Thadani, Ritesh Sidhwani, sent a video message apologising for his absence. The actor-filmmaker stated that it is his privilege to take the film to the North Indian audience. SR Prabhu and Sai Korapotti, the distributors of the Telugu and Tamil versions, respectively, also expressed their honour in being associated with such a big project.

Sanjay Dutt, who plays the villain Adheera in the film, spoke about how KGF 2 has been a learning experience. "After being in the industry for over 45 years, this film has been a lesson to me in terms of what togetherness and unity in cinema can produce," said Sanjay Dutt, while also thanking his "younger brother" Yash for being a wonderful co-star.

Raveena Tandon, who is essaying the role of Prime Minister Ramika Sen, was all praise for the director Prashanth and Yash. Calling Prashanth a "thorough gentleman" who can also be a "thorough terror", Raveena said Yash was "not just a rocking star but also a rocking human being."

Usually a man of few words, Prashanth thanked his team for their years of hard work. In a wonderful gesture, the director called some of the main crew members on stage and proudly said, "I have the best technical team in the world. It has been eight years since we started the journey. We have done everything possible to tell this story in the best way possible." The director also took the occasion to remember Puneeth Rajkumar. "Everything we have done over these eight years, we dedicate it all to Appu sir."

Yash also began his speech by remembering Puneeth. He praised Prashanth Neel for being a visionary and thanked producer Vijay Kiragandur for showing the courage to produce a story like this. Yash also remembered how Sanjay Dutt was a "true fighter", who took the risk of shooting for the film in adverse conditions despite his health conditions.

Karan Johar

Towards the end of the event, when asked about the much-hyped box office clash with Vijay's Beast, which will hit screens worldwide on April 13, Yash won hearts by saying, "This is not an election where only one emerges as the winner. This is cinema. So according to me, it is not KGF 2 vs Beast, but KGF 2 and Beast. Also, there's something called legacy. Vijay sir is such a big star, who has been entertaining people for so long. We have to respect that. I always believe that your downfall starts the moment you start thinking that you're better than your seniors. He is my senior and I'm sure fans will watch both our films. Let us celebrate Indian cinema together."

Vijay, Puri announce their second film together

CE FEATURES

WE had previously told you that Vijay Deverakonda and Puri Jagannadh will be teaming up once again after Liger and the pan-Indian project has been titled Jana Gana Mana. Now they have announced officially that the collaboration is happening and the title will be revealed tomorrow.

The update was shared today along with a poster featuring a fighter jet. The film is said to be produced by Karan Johar's Dharma Productions in association with Puri Connects. Janhvi Kapoor is expected to make her debut in Telugu with this film.

A source close to the makers says that all the characters in the film speak in their native language and there won't be any subtitles.

The story reportedly gives a contemporary take on the gruesome murders, rape cases, and crimes that shook our nation over the last few years.

Vidyut Jammwal to star in and as Sher Singh Raana

CE FEATURES

VIDYUT Jammwal will portray Sher Singh Raana in a biopic directed by Shree Narrayan Singh.

The film, a true-lifer, is about a Rajput man who undertook the journey of bringing back the 800-year-old ashes of Prithviraj Chauhan.

Vidyut Jammwal

In 2001, Sher Singh Rana, with two others, assassinated Phoolan Devi and later escaped from Tihar jail in 2004. He then travelled to Afghanistan and claimed to have brought back remains from the tomb of Prithviraj Chauhan.

On joining the team of Sher Singh Raana, Vidyut says, "Sher Singh Raana marks my first biopic. I think destiny connected the dots when the role of the fearless Sher Singh Raana came to me. I look forward to working with Vinod Bhanushali and Shree Narrayan Singh." Talking about the casting, director Shree Narrayan Singh shares, "When you hear tales of Sher Singh Raana you know that his life and his experiences were filled with adventure and intrigue. While Vidyut has conquered the action space, in this film we see him take on a character he has never attempted before. It is about this man whose sole focus was to do something for his nation."

The biopic on Sher Singh Raana is produced by Vinod Bhanushali, Kamlesh Bhanushali and Vishal Gurnani of Bhanushali Studios Ltd and Vishal Tyagi and Mohammed Imran Khan of Matargashti Films.

Shanthipriya

Sonal Monteiro

Music director Vinay Chandra marks his directorial debut with Sarojini Naidu biopic

The multilingual film will feature well-known actor Shanthipriya in the titular role

CE FEATURES

VINAY Chandra, the music director of Kannada films like Guru, Manjunatha BA, LLB, and Bodyguard, will now be marking his directorial debut with a biopic on Sarojini Naidu. Sharing the first look poster of the film, Vinay said that the biopic will tell an untold story about the Nightingale of India, and the film will touch on the personal side of Sarojini.

"Dhiraj Mishra is the writer of this film, and after an extensive research about the Nightingale of India, we have finally locked the subject," says Vinay, adding, "The film will be made in Kannada and Hindi, and will be dubbed and released in Telugu and Tamil."

Backed by Honey Chowdary and Charan Suvarna, and co-produced by Hemanth Gowda, the film made under Visica Films banner has an interesting cast.

CB Kulkarni, Vinay Chandra, Honey Chowdary, Charan Suvarna

"Well-known South Indian actor Shanthipriya will be playing the titular role. The actor who was once a popular personality in Tamil and Telugu films is making a comeback with this biopic. We have roped in Hiten Tejwani to play her husband Muthyala Govindarajulu Naidu, and Zarina Wahab in a pivotal character. Interestingly, the film will feature our own Sonal Monteiro playing the younger version of Sarojini," says Vinay.

Vinay Chandra shares that it was the Gandhi biopic that inspired him to make this film. "To start with Honey Chowdary and Charan Suvarna were in talks with Dhiraj Mishra to come up with a biopic, and later I came into the picture, and everything fell in place. We took six months to finalise the story, and today, we are finally on track," he says.

Vinay Chandra will be doubling up as the music director of the film, which has Anil Kumar K as the cinematographer. The team plans to kickstart shooting in the first week of June in locations like Uttar Pradesh and Mumbai. "We will also be shooting in parts of Coorg, and Bengaluru," he says.
